The Ghosts May Wonder. California for Garner. Russia Turns Jingo. Mr. Ecker's Advertising.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SHANGHAI SENDS word that China and Japan ended the war out there with an armistice this morning. American, British, French and Italian representatives signed the peace documents. Japanese soldiers will be withdrawn.

The ghosts of thousands of Chinese women, children and civilians, and of Chinese and Japanese soldiers will wonder, perhaps, why it was necessary to kill them.

SPEAKER GARNER seems to have won the California primaries, defeating Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith.

This does not surprise those who know that the five powerful newspapers owned by W. R. Hearst in California have all supported Mr. Garner.

If Mr. Garner were president you would see in the White House one who knows about simple living. When he was a boy in Texas, the bright evenings were those following the slaughter of an ox. While the fat lasted the family had good candles, by which you could read if you held your book close. When there was no more steer fat the light available was bad and reading was painful.

NOT SATISFIED with the worries of her 10-year plan, Russia talks about what she would do if war came. Blucher, eastern commander of the Red army, says Russia likes peace, but is ready for a fight.

The "oath of fidelity" has been administered to the Russian soldiers as "an iron call to strength and to fight."

TALKING TO any European government about war, now, is like talking to a seasick passenger about pork in mid-ocean, but Russia's talk at present is intended for Japan.

The Japanese, very intelligent, probably will not be misled into imagining that they could do to modern Russia what they did under the incompetent rule of the czars.

MR. FREDERICK ECKER'S Metropolitan Life announces among its industrial policy holders the lowest death rate in all history. This, undoubtedly, is due largely to the fact that Mr. Ecker's company carries on through public advertising a systematic health campaign, giving information for health protection in simple language, and warnings against dangers that increase the death rate.

This campaign of health education, protecting the Metropolitan company's policy holders and its own funds, is admirable.

CAPONE, EXTRAORDINARY product of prohibition bootlegging, his spirit not broken, handcuffed to another criminal, struts to the train bound for Atlanta prison. He tells reporters "I am through with the racket," but his mind will be on it in prison. He will endeavor to control his "mob" from his cell, relying upon a few faithful to terrify others into loyalty.

Charles the Fifth, it is said, continued to manage his empire after he had resigned the throne and entered a monastery. But a monastery is not a federal penitentiary and gangsters lose respect for a leader who is "put away."

ON THE DESERT you may see the deadly poisonous female scorpion wandering, with her young ones clinging to her back. While slowly devouring their mother's body, leaving only an empty shell, they occasionally drop off, return and climb on again.

The female scorpion is the forerunner of the giant dirigible Akron. That great ship, which would prove very "poisonous" in war, sails around carrying small flying machines called "spider" planes stowed away in a hangar inside the ship.

On Tuesday Lieuts. Harrigan and Young flew from the mother ship in these little planes and flew back again, "hooked on" and repeated the operation 15 times.

Such a dirigible, carrying a group of "spider" bombing planes within striking distance of an enemy city, might make itself disagreeable.

REPRESENTATIVE RAINEY, of Illinois, says the government will NOT print money to pay the soldiers' bonus, and all organized finance, badly frightened just now, but still influential, says the same.

Probably the soldiers won't get their bonus, but you cannot help thinking of these things.

The soldiers alone could have distributed that money immediately in every corner of the United States. There is no other way of accomplishing that, no other way to start buying all over the country.

The government owes two billions to the soldiers, will have to pay it some day with interest at 4 per cent.

By printing the money and letting the soldiers have it when they need it most, the government would save $80,000,000 a year in interest.

NEW YORK'S building strike is growing, 40,000 skilled men added to the city's unemployed, which is unfortunate.

Employers want to pay their men only $10 a day. Bricklayers demand $2.50 an hour, or $20.48 for eight hours. The more the workers make the more they have to spend and the greater prosperity, within reason.

This time of unemployment, however, would seem to be a good time for arbitration.

A CURIOUS country is Mexico, and puzzling to Uncle Sam. They make laws there and then obey the laws. Because of one law, increasing the taxes on

RICH GOLFER GETS DEATH THREAT

Ellsworth Augustus Directed To Pay $25,000 or Risk Life of Self, Children

CLEVLAND, May 5.—(AP.—An attempt to extort $25,000 from Ellsworth H. Augustus, wealthy real estate man and nationally known golf star, under penalty of death was revealed today.

The 80 acre Augustus estate has been placed under a heavy guard.

Augustus is a former city golf champion and has competed in a number of national tournaments. He is a prominent real estate dealer. His father, the late Elbert Anthony Augustus, was head of the Chambridge Collieries Company, an Ohio coal concern.

Mrs. Augustus is the former Frances Elizabeth Good, of Buffalo.

WARNED BY LETTER

A letter demanding the money and threatening death unless its terms were complied with was received last Monday by Augustus, he said today. He was instructed to put the money on a fence post by a gate at his estate in Waite Heights village, home of many Cleveland millionaires. Augustus said:

"The letter was written in the new style script that is taught now in public schools, and what words were misspelled, I believe, were deliberately altered.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that a distinct attempt was made to disguise the handwriting."

TRAILED BY SLEUTHS

Since then detectives have trailed Augustus in his daily trips to his office and seven men were found patrolling his estate today, refusing admittance to all strangers. His wife and children—Daneen, 9, a pupil at Hathaway-Brown Girls' School; Albert Anthony II, 7, who attends university school here, and Elizabeth, 4—also were being guarded.

The note, written in pencil, on a paper bag, said:

"Leave $25,000 in paper money beside the gate in the fence along Hogart road in the Northwest corner of your estate Tuesday night between midnight and 1 a. m. Do this—or you will die at our hands.

"POOR FAMILIES."

WARNED BY TELEPHONE

Failure to meet the demand was followed yesterday by a telephone call to Augustus' office by a man who told a secretary:

"Tell Mr. Augustus that he didn't keep his word. He'll get it for this—tell him that. If that isn't enough, we'll get his children, too."

Augustus was busy on another telephone at the time. Preceding this call, a woman telephoned the Augustus home, but hung up before he could answer.

Outright Pardon Demanded for 4 In Massie Case

HONOLULU, May 5.—(AP.)—A move for an outright pardon for Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three naval men convicted of lynching Joseph Hahahawai was pressed today after the quartet had fully satisfied the law by spending one hour in custody of the territorial high sheriff.

Sentenced yesterday in a surprise court session to 10 years in prison for manslaughter, they were immediately granted a commutation of sentence to one hour by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd.

With the case closed, the New York society woman was expected to leave Hawaii soon to join her author husband in the East. Her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, will probably be transferred to other posts.

RE-TRIAL UNLIKELY

The Governor's order also apparently paved the way to dropping retrial of the four surviving men accused of assaulting Mrs. Thalia Massie last September.

The commutation also saved the Navy men from having their service records marred by imprisonment. Capt. Ward Wortman, Massie's commander, said federal action would have been necessary to clear their records had they actually been committed to prison, even for an hour.

Harry Hewitt, Attorney General said the commutation did not constitute a pardon and did not

LINDY HINTED ON YACHT TRIP

NORFOLK, Va., May 5.—(INS.)—The yacht Marcon quietly put out to sea again today, presumably in an effort to enable the Norfolk negotiators for the return of the Lindbergh baby to contact the kidnapers.

Reports again were circulated that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was on board. Confirmation of this report could not be obtained, however. The vessel was commanded by Capt. Frank H. Lachmann.

Tex Guinan Sails; $10,000,000, Too

NEW YORK, May 5.—(INS.)—Texas Guinan, night club entertainer, and $10,000,000 in gold sailed today aboard the liner Bremen for France, but their destinations were different.

The gold is a shipment to the Bank of France. Tex will stay in Paris only four days and then return.

HIRSH, AIDES GET SENATE SUMMONS

Subpenaed in Probe of Vote Machine Contract With Allegheny County

State Senate subpenas were served on H. D. Hirsh, organizer of the Electromatic Voting Machine Company; Lewis Abramson, an officer in the company; a clerk named Lewis in Hirsh's office, and for the company records.

The subpenas called for their appearance in Harrisburg at 2 p. m. Monday before the Senate committee investigating the sale of 1,100 voting machines to Allegheny County, with the Electromatic company acting as agent for the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore.

FIVE AWAIT SERVICE

At least five more subpenas were known to have been issued, but not yet served.

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the committee, who signed the subpenas, said yesterday:

"We intend to get to the very bottom of this matter."

Others named in the subpenas are C. G. Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Electromatic company, to whom payments of $169,000 were made; Charles Pearson, who, it is understood, was to be paid a royalty by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company on voting machines sold in Northumberland and Schuylkill counties; Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank and M. C. Conick, chief auditor of Main & Co., who have been investigating the voting machine transaction for the County Commissioners; Robert Gladstone, resident manager of the Poole company, and Chet Cooke, president of the Electromatic company

Tuberculosis Death Rate Lowest Here

Pittsburgh in 1931 had the lowest death rate from tuberculosis of any city in the country with a population of more than 500,000, the annual report of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association revealed today. Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the City Department of Health, was informed that the association's record showed Pittsburgh's tuberculosis death rate to be 65 per 100,000 inhabitants. Chicago was next with 66, while Baltimore showed the highest rate, 117.

Denied Hospital Aid, Injured Man Dies

CLEVELAND, May 5.—(AP.)—Charles Miller, 68, of Rochester, N. Y., died in a hospital here early today after he had been refused treatment at another hospital for injuries suffered when a train cut off his leg.

Officials of the first hospital said today Miller was not treated because its contract with the New York Central Lines, on whose tracks Miller was injured, was for minor cases only.

TAX BILL SHORT $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—The revised revenue bill was declared $100,000,000 short of the goal of balancing the budget by Chairman Smoot, of the Senate Finance Committee, and the committee was called back to look for new taxes.

Smoot made his estimate after the committee had applied the brakes to further reversals in rates and had settled back to learn from the Treasury just what the bill did.

He pointed to even higher increases in the income taxes as one way of finding the additional $100,000,000 which appeared to be necessary after the first survey of the rewritten legislation.

Recess by Congress Forecast by Garner

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(INS.)—Speaker John N. Garner, of the House, today expressed doubt that Congress will adjourn by June 10 or 12 until next December. He added that in that event Congress probably would suspend its session from about June 10 until July 5, so members can attend the conventions.

Explosion in Store Makes Torch of Man

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., May 5.—(INS.)—Transformed into a human torch, an unidentified man was burned to death today when fire following an explosion swept the general store of Adolph Schwartz, at Georgetown, near here. Loss was estimated at $12,000.

A Mrs. Thomas, living near the store, told police she saw the man running from the store immediately after the blast. The victim's body was found outside the store.

FOOD DEALER ACCUSED OF PERJURY

By M. V. BURGESS
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., May 5.—Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop acted without "wrongful or corrupt" intent in their alleged illegal purchase of city supplies, Attorney Charles B. Prichard declared to the jury today in revealing the groundwork of the defense for the two defendants on trial charged with malfeasance.

Prichard opened the defense with a stirring address to the jury after the commonwealth had closed its case in spectacular fashion, shortly before noon, by dropping seven counts in the indictment and arresting Jacob Marcus, produce dealer, on a perjury charge.

Prichard asserted:

"They did not advertise for bids, but they did not act wilfully, wrongfully or corruptly."

It appeared that the defense would admit technical violation of the law, but stress the contention that these violations were not actuated by greed. Kline was in Europe when much of the canned goods and other supplies were bought, Prichard told the jury.

Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed in closing for the commonwealth asked that charges included in the seven counts, involving alleged purchases of nearly a score of au-

BORAH SCORES 'COURAGE' PLEA

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—Predicting that the summer of 1932 will be fraught with fateful consequences to the world—marking either the beginning of economic recovery or a plunge into "indescribable chaos"—Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, today assailed mal-distribution of gold as the main cause of depression.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee branded the Geneva disarmament conference as a failure and rapping President Hoover's pleas for a return of confidence he thundered:

"If a patient has a broken leg and gangrene has set in, he may have the confidence and courage, but he needs a surgeon!"

Borah proposed a three-point program for the restoration of prosperity to America and to the rest of the world. He suggested:

Reduction of military armaments throughout the world to lighten the burdens of the people; settlement of the reparations problem so Europe can start her economic recovery, and restoration of silver standards to all the former silver nations so "one-half the human family can trade with the rest of the world."

Probers Solve Vote Discrepancy at Kane

KANE, Pa., May 5.—It was not the voting machine that was wrong in the primary election in Kane's Third Ward. It was the election board. There was a discrepancy of 100 votes, and the machine was opened to discover the cause.

Pitt Students in Turmoil Over Ballot Box Stuffing

Politics at Pitt was in another turmoil today with the announcement that last Friday's election of Student Council had been thrown out because of ballot box stuffing.

Another election will be held Monday for junior and senior offices in the council.

In four of the six schools that cast ballots crude attempts had been made to stuff the boxes, according to the announcement of Theodore W. Biddle, assistant dean of men, who with Eddie Baker, council chairman, counted the votes last Saturday.

In one box, the announcement said, 60 ballots were found folded together, marked in the same handwriting and with the same pen. Baker and Biddle said the fraud pointed to "obvious fraternity alliances."

No evidence of cheating was found in the ballots in the schools of dentistry and education. Evidence of the fraud, however, was found in the boxes of the engineers, mine, college of art and business administration, Biddle declared. He said:

"This office and the administration is co-operating with the students in this election, and both Mr. Baker and myself felt the only fair thing to do was to hold another election."

Methodists May Pick Dr. Day as New Bishop

Welch's Transfer to Washington or Japan Studied

ATLANTIC CITY, May 5.—Three developments in the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church being held here today were of paramount interest to Pittsburghers:

1—Indication that the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Church, Pittsburgh, may be appointed as one of the new bishops.

2—Consideration of the transfer of Bishop Herbert Welch, of the Pittsburgh area, to the Washington (D. C.) bishopric, the most important in Methodism, or his return to Japan, where, it is said, he feels he can be of service in the present conditions owing to his previous experience in the Orient.

GARNER'S CALIFORNIA VICTORY BLOW TO ROOSEVELT, SMITH

BOTH NEW YORK CANDIDATES WEAKENED

Leaders Now Certain Real Fight Will Be in Chicago; Speaker Forges to Fore

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The result of the California Democratic primary, which was a clean-cut victory for Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, will further weaken the Roosevelt bid for the presidential nomination of that party.

It will be naturally interpreted as confirming the growing opinion among party leaders that he should not be nominated.

Following the rebuke of Roosevelt in Massachusetts and his failure to make a better showing in Pennsylvania, the California decision, giving its 44 votes to Garner, will encourage the leaders in states yet to hold primaries to increase the effort to eliminate both Roosevelt and Smith and select a candidate with a better chance to win than either.

FIELD OPENED

The California decision will also open up the field to other contenders. The man upon whom the Democratic eyes will now be focused will be Speaker Garner, who will probably become the target of the supporters of Ritchie, Byrd, Murray, Reed and Lewis, with other counties yet to hear from.

Regardless of impending primary struggles, California's decision, coupled with that of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, is certain to bring about a new alignment that will negative the impressive lead that Roosevelt enjoyed a couple of weeks ago.

To win the Democratic nomination a contender must receive two-thirds or 770 votes, instead of a majority (577) which controls the decesion of the Republican nominating convention. To hold the veto power, 385 votes are required.

DELEGATES PLEDGED

The box score up to date shows that candidates have received indorsements in about this order:

Roosevelt, 348; Smith, 107; Garner, 88; White, 52; Lewis, 50; Reed, 26; Byrd, 24; Murray, 22.

The leaders supporting various candidates, representing various factions, are now absolutely certain that the final battle for the presidential nomination will be fought out on the floor of the convention.

They are more convinced than ever since California has spoken that the man named will not be either Roosevelt or Smith.

Garner Easy Winner In Golden State

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(AP.)—California's 44 votes for President in the Democratic National Convention were lined up today for Speaker John M. Garner as the result of the clear-cut victory of his ticket over those of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith in the state presidential primary.

The Texan's margin of victory over Roosevelt, his closest contender, was more than 45,000 votes with only 375 isolated precincts unreported. There was no chance these precincts would materially change the result.

The Speaker of the House received more than half of his total vote in Los Angeles County, which holds approximately 40 per cent of the voting power of the state and carried all but two of the southern counties, San Diego and Kern. Roosevelt got pluralities in 37 of the state's counties and Garner carried 17.

With 9,896 of the 10,271 precincts counted the voted stood: Garner, 214,647; Roosevelt, 169,219; Smith, 137,420.

Anti-Drys May Force Runoff in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 5.—(AP.)—Roosevelt-pledged delegates maintained a commanding lead in returns from the Alabama Democratic primary today, but a runoff between the incumbent dry senatorial candidate and a referendum advocate appeared favorable in that race.

In the senatorial race, the dry incumbent, Senator Black, had 64,496 votes from 1,343 boxes while former Gov. Kilby, who favors a referendum, had 39,206. The three other candidates trailed far behind. Under the Alabama primary law, unless a candidate receives a clear majority a runoff is held between the high man and the next high.

T. R.'S SON RAPS VET 'RACKET'

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Archibald B. Roosevelt, son of the former President, today presented to President Hoover a letter asking him to take "open and determined action" to cut off compensations paid to veterans for disabilities not resulting from war service.

Roosevelt declared in a statement left with the President that "a vast legalized 'racket' has been foisted on the people, whereby one-quarter of all the revenue received from the whole nation is being expended for the benefit of less than 1 per cent of the people."

He also presented the President a petition backed by the National Economy Committee. Roosevelt said Mr. Hoover "seemed interested" in it.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee put off until Friday a vote on the Patman plan to issue additional currency to redeem the two billion dollars outstanding on soldiers' bonus certificates.

Along with the Patman plan the committee is considering a proposal to authorize issuance of bonds to retire the new currency should the value of the dollar drop too low.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—President Hoover has approved an award of $5,000 to a woman whose husband was slain by customs officers hunting smuggled merchandise. He signed, without comment, a measure to award that sum to Senzima Wirkkula, widow of Henry Wirkkula.

Wirkkula was shot on June 8, 1929, by customs Patrol Officers, Emil V. Servine and Emmet J. White.

CHINESE, JAPS SIGN TRUCE

SHANGHAI, May 5.—(AP.)—Representatives of China and Japan signed a truce agreement today, officially ending the hostilities which began here last January.

The text of the armistice agreement was not immediately available, but it was understood to specify that Japanese troops be withdrawn to the International Settlement and the roads nearby, adjacent to Hongkew.

It was said also that some Japanese troops would be left in specified areas between Hongkew and Woosung because of the impossibility of billeting the entire Japanese armed force within the Settlement. The withdrawal, it was understood, would begin within a week and would be completed within the following month.

Scientists' Foe, Writer Dies at 57

NEW YORK, May 5.—(INS.)—An unrelenting foe of scientists who became a powerful writer of tales of the strange and bizarre happenings of the world, Charles H. Fort, 57, was dead today.

DANCER KILLED BY BLAST

Gladys Cooke, 18, attractive night club dancer, died in Columbia Hospital early today of burns suffered a few hours before in an explosion of cleaning fluid, she and her mother were using in the basement of their home at 106 Sixth street, Turtle Creek, last night.

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Cooke, 43, is in a serious condition in Braddock General Hospital.

Jerry Merrick, 28, of 122 Sixth street, burned about the hands and legs when he attempted to rescue the women, is confined to his home.

Merrick was near the house when the explosion occurred. He heard the screams of the women and rushed in to find their hair and clothing afire. He partially checked the flames before his own clothing caught fire. Neighbors, police and firemen succeeded in bringing the three from the building and quenching the fire.

Miss Cooke was well known as an acrobatic dancer in Pittsburgh, having entertained at the Nixon Restaurant, Flotilla Club, Mayfair Roof and other local resorts.

CAPONE WANTS TO COOK IN PRISON

By KARL M. KAHN
International News Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 5.—Al Capone, employer of countless "alky-cooks," would like to do a little cooking on his own account. But the deposed gang lord would have to exercise his highly-reputed culinary talents on food, not alcohol, if his wish is granted.

As America's most publicized gangster began his first day of regulated existence within the confines of Atlanta Penitentiary's bleak walls today, he expressed the hope that officials will see fit to assign him to work in the prison kitchen.

Capone, whose skill in handling a ladle or a frying pan is as highly regarded as his familiarity with a gat, remarked:

"I hope the warden likes spaghetti."

10-YEAR STRETCH

Facing a 10-year stretch in the country's "safest prison" for having bilked the federal government out of its share of his illicit earnings, Capone today was undergoing the ordinary routine prescribed for convict initiates. He will be known henceforth as prisoner No. 40886.

Awakening in his special receiving cell after his first night in the penitentiary, the jeers and catcalls of Capone's fellow inmates still rang in his ears as he recalled the strange welcome accorded him when he arrived last night.

ASSIGNED NUMBER

After assigning him his number, Warden Aderhold asked Capone what his sentence is. The gangster replied:

"Eleven years."

WARDEN TAKES MONEY

In a voice that was cool and even, Warden Aderholdt said:

"Give me whatever money you have."

The gangster handed over $220.

This was the end of the road of crime; this was oblivion. But for Capone it was more—and worse. It was the beginning of the most miserable six and two-thirds years (the approximate length of the minimum prison sentence with time off for good behavior) of Capone's life.

At the end of that time, about January, 1939, Capone will be returned to the comparative luxury of the Cook County (Ill.) Jail, where he sat since last October 24, when Judge Wilkerson sentenced him to 11 years' imprisonment, fined him $50,000 and imposed the costs of his trial for income tax evasion.

Erlanger's Estate Shrinks to $124.20

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—An actual value of $124.20 was placed yesterday on the estate of Abraham L. Erlanger, theatrical producer, which has been the subject of long-drawn-out court battles.

An ad interim accounting of the estate filed in Surrogate's Court valued the net estate at $1,308,377.19, but pointed out that practically all the assets were in debts "uncollected and uncollectable."

Guards Shoot Sailor In Rum Boat Seizure

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 5.—(AP.)—The 60-foot speed boat Scipio, of Bridgeport, an alleged rum runner, was captured today off Fisher's Island after one of her crew had been wounded severely by a machine gun bullet from a Coast Guard boat.

The wounded man, known to his shipmates only as Charlie, was shot in the head, the bullet fracturing his skull. Hospital officials said he would probably die.

Miss Nolan, the movie figure, who with her husband, Wallace T. Macrery, at Los Angeles has lost her first move to evade a 30-day jail sentence for violating the state labor laws. They're planning an appeal to the State Supreme court on two decisions.

BOGUS DU PONT STOCK SEIZED

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—After seizing counterfeit copies of $2,000,000 worth of E. I. du Pont de Nemours stock in a surprise raid, police announced today they had nipped a plot to flood the financial markets of the nation with bogus securities. The raid was made in a West Fifty-third street loft building.

Four men found working in the place were arrested. Police intimated the arrest of several "front men," who assertedly were planning to obtain bank loans on the worthless stock, would follow shortly.

All the certificates seized were counterfeits of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company common stock. Police Commissioner Mulrooney pronounced them excellent imitations.

The raid climaxed three months of detective work, during which the four men constantly were shadowed and on occasion were trailed to other cities. The prisoners said they were John Fitzgerald, 40; Antonio Pittala, 34; Jack Cohen, 30, and Abraham Richman, 24.

Beaver Valley Men Vote 20 Per Cent Cut

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., May 5.—Eighty-five employes of the Beaver Valley Traction Company, subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, last night voted to accept a wage cut of 20 per cent for one year. The new scale will be 54 cents an hour, if accepted by the company, which has been in conference with representatives of the men. The company sought a 25 per cent cut.

Hoover Leading In South Dakota

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 5.—(AP.)—South Dakota's 11 votes in the Republican National Convention are expected to go to President Hoover as a result of Tuesday's primary in this state. A delegation favorable to him led a group opposed to the President as compilation of returns neared completion.

DAY CONSIDERED FOR BISHOPRIC family relations, with the probability that a report will be made placing the question before the conference. This is the first time the subject has been slated for committee consideration in the history of the church, although the Pittsburgh conference in 1930 went on record favoring properly supervised control.

Dr. Day is now chairman of the committee on foreign missions, a highly important post, and his name is one of the most frequently mentioned for appointment as one of the four or five bishops to be named this month.

WANT WELCH HERE

There is a strong movement here, among influential Pittsburghers, to have Bishop Welch retained in his present district. Dr. Day has called a meeting of the Pittsburgh delegation for tomorrow, at which definite plans will be formulated to bring pressure upon the conference to allow Bishop Welch to at least complete the four years remaining of his current term.

The committee on family relations, a sub-body of the powerful committee on state of church, was prepared to take up the question of birth control at the suggestion of its chairman, Dr. Ralph H. Sockman, of New York.

The action is being taken, a committee member said, because of numerous declarations on the subject by other denominational bodies. Well informed sources expressed the belief the committee would make a report that would bring the subject before the general conference for legislation.

The family relations committee meeting was also watched with interest today for a further discussion of the changes proposed in the existing church discipline on divorce and the remarriage of divorced persons.

FAVORED HERE

The Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church went on record on October 4, 1930, as favoring properly supervised birth control. A report from the social service commission, adopted by the conference, read:

"We call upon the church for a fair and full facing of all the facts involved and we recommend such legislation as shall make it possible for physicians in the families which they serve, or for accredited clinics, to give such information as shall make the assumption of parenthood a consecration and not an accident."

HOUSE SLASHES ARMY BILL BY 24 MILLIONS

2,000 Officers Face Layoff, Funds Refused Training Camps; Reservists Cut

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Slashed by many millions under President Hoover's budget estimates, the last of the big regular supply bills for 1932—that for the War Department—was reported to the House today by its Appropriation Committee.

Cutting 2,000 officers off the active list and making other sweeping reductions, the measure carries $386,983,000 for maintenance of the Army and its non-military activities. It is $58,789,000 below current appropriations and $24,380,000 less than the budget estimates.

160 MILLIONS SLASHED

The reduction brings to $160,000,000 the amount deducted by the Democratic controlled committee from President Hoover's requests for funds for the maintenance of the federal government in 1933. Only the second deficiency appropriation bill remains to be presented before Congress adjourns.

Of the total, $281,539,000 is for military activities, while $105,444,000 is for non-military work of the department, including a lump sum of $60,000,000 for the improvement of rivers and harbors, and $32,000,000 for the Mississippi Valley flood control project.

TRAINING CAMPS OUT

Besides cutting from 12,000 to 10,000 the number of officers, the bill proposes suspension of camps for Reserve Officers training; suspension of citizens military training camps; suspension of 14 day training pay for organized reserves; a $5,555,000 curtailment of transportation of troops and officers; a $3,219,000 reduction in subsistence allowances, and reduction in flying pay totaling $112,500.

Although the amount allotted Army Air Corps activities is $54,738,000, the general expenses, including outlays for work on the five-year expansion program, are set at $25,541,000.

The report said this expansion program, authorized in 1926, could not be completed in 1933, because it would require 2,058 airplanes to maintain the 1,800 in active service, there being 12½ per cent unserviceable at all times. At present the Army is 198 planes short of the 1,800.

Bomb Burns 6 Texas Theater Patrons

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 5.—(AP.)—Six persons were burned, two seriously, by explosion of a sulphur "bomb" on the lower floor of the Aztec Theater here last night.

The bombing was the fourth of a series here following the discharge of approximately 30 operators in six theaters April 18 in a dispute over the employment of stage hands. New operators were imported to occupy the booths.

Fisherman Missing 20 Hours Found Dead

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 5.—After a 20-hour search, the body of George L. Marietta, 57, Connellsville merchant, and member of a prominent family, was found dead in Koozer's Run, Somerset County, today. He had gone fishing with his son, Daniel, 20, yesterday. He failed to meet the son at a rendezvous. Signs of a struggle near his parked automobile indicated to police that he might have been attacked.

St. Paul Elects Laborite Mayor

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 5.—(AP.)—William Mahoney, Labor-indorsed candidate, was elected Mayor of St. Paul in an election that brought out the heaviest vote in the city's history.

Complete returns today gave Mahoney 40,467 votes to 35,405 for Mayor Gerhard J. Bundlie, who has held office two years. Among six councilmen named, three were indorsed by Labor.

Japan Again Opposes Submarine Abolition

GENEVA, May 5.—(AP.)—United States Senator Claude A. Swanson, branding the submarine as "the assassin of the sea," renewed his attack on those craft as aggressive weapons of warfare in today's meeting of the disarmament conference naval commission.

Senator Swanson would abolish the submarine, but his thesis was opposed again today by the Japanese representative.

Type of Pants for Royal Bow Still Puzzles Mellon

LONDON, May 5.—(INS.)—Andrew W. Mellon, United States ambassador to Great Britain, has not yet bought his "royal court breeches."

This fact was definitely ascertained by International News Service today in the course of an interview with the ambassador.

Moreover, it was learned that he is wavering indecisively between the conservative correctness of ordinary formal attire and the old world elegance of silk breeches fastened at the knee with rhinestone buckles.

With the first of the seasons royal courts at Buckingham Palace only a few days away, Ambassador Mellon is confronted with the necessity of a definite decision shortly.

Ambassador Mellon was reminded of the approbation showered by Britain upon the late George Harvey, former ambassador, when he made his Buckingham Palace debut resplendent in silken "shorts" of blackest hue.

This appeared to interest the ambassador.

He then was reminded of the flood of ridicule with which former Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes greeted the suggestion that he emulate Harvey's example.

This independence of spirit on the part of his immediate predecessor interested Ambassador Mellon none the less.

But for one mode of dress or the other, he preserved an attitude of strictly benevolent neutrality. Whatever he wears, it cannot be said he failed to give the matter the proper careful consideration and impartial thought.

An American racketeer crossed the border from California to Mexico to enjoy himself, taking his bodyguard, had an argument with a Mexican citizen, and instructed his bodyguard to "do his stuff."

The bodyguard replied:

Cleric Visits 8 Speakeasies But Sees Little Drinking

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—(AP.)—Whether Philadelphia is as dry as proponents of prohibition say, or as wet as opponents allege, still is a matter of opinion between two men who made a tour of speakeasies here.

In a debate at Moorestown, N. J., recently, Joseph S. Clark, Jr., chairman of the Philadelphia Committee of Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization, challenged the Rev. Dr. James K. Shields, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, to go on a tour of the Chestnut Hill section of Philadelphia with him to determine whether there is much drinking. Dr. Shields accepted and the tour was made secretly last Saturday night.

In a report made public yesterday, Dr. Shields said:

"If the only drinking going on in Chestnut Hill was what I saw, then the town is to be congratulated."

Clark said:

"We have proved our contention that drinking goes on in spite of prohibition."

Clark promised to take Dr. Shields to 17 speakeasies. Eight places were visited, Clark said, but Dr. Shields was tired and did not want to continue the tour.

Dr. Shields said he took with him a man to taste the drinks to see whether they really were liquor.

WITNESS ARRESTED AS KLINE PROSECUTION CLOSES

ACCUSE MARCUS OF PERJURY ON STAND

tomobile trucks, fire hose and sand at other than the low bids, be thrown out, as the prosecution was without sufficient evidence to sustain them.

Marcus, called as a commonwealth witness in the closing moments of the prosecution's case, was arrested at the direction of District Attorney A. T. Park after he was alleged to have changed his testimony from that which he gave before the Allegheny County grand jury that indicted Kline and his ousted supplies director.

PLACED IN JAIL HERE

Before the grand jury Marcus is said to have testified that "Nathanson" was a distant relative who lived in Anaheim street, Pittsburgh. Today he explained that he meant A. Nathanson, of New Kensington, now seriously ill in a hospital and unable to testify.

While Marcus was still on the stand, Prosecutor Park conferred with Judge Finletter for several minutes. So quickly was Marcus whisked out of the courtroom, at the conclusion of his testimony, and into a county car for jail in Pittsburgh that few in the room knew of it.

[Marcus was lodged in the Allegheny County Jail at 1 p. m. on a District Attorney's detainer.]

The charges withdrawn by the Commonwealth were that Kline and Succop had authorized contracts for the purchase at other than low bids these supplies:

One 2½-ton truck from Miller Brothers; from Rea, Seagert Company eight 1½-ton trucks; four Ford coupes from C. E. Moodey Motor Company; two from Manor Garage and one from Barnes Motor Company; 1,000 feet of fire hose from Eureka Hose Company; two one-half ton trucks from Sable Richards Motor Company; one 3½-ton truck from Brockway Motor Company; sand from Marion Coal Company.

WOMAN TESTIFIES

Faced with a ruling by Judge Finletter that only evidence linking Kine and his deposed supplies director with alleged irregularities would be admitted, the commonwealth continued in its closing efforts to hook up the two to reputed granting of contracts to high bidders or on trick specifications.

The first woman witness of the trial, Miss Fern Griffith, former secretary for Succop took the stand today.

She testified that Jerry Cronin, a salesman for the L. H. Parke Company, which supplied canned goods for Mayview, and Sam Adler, butter and egg broker, were frequent callers at Succop's office and were apparently close friends.

Asked if Cronin had access to papers in Succop's private office, Miss Griffith said he was often in there and that she thought he had.

Judge Finlettter ruled out the prosecution's attempt to introduce specifications calling for "Parke or equal" as indication of favoritism, but Reed got it in by showing Succop's name signed to specifications.

PRIVATE MARKS ON CANS

Testimony yesterday relating to contracts given to the Parke company revealed that private marks were placed on cans submitted for food tests at Mayview, ostensibly so they could be identified and listed as of superior quality.

James B. Sansom, member of the County Planning Commission and silent partner in the Puffinburg Company, which sold much furniture to the city, was called. He testified he had arranged the financing and that Puffinburg had the sales experience.

The same confidence that has marked the defense throughout the trial remained today in spite of dramatic testimony which, while it did not lead directly to the door of the defendants, threw much light on the city's purchasing methods.

HINGES ON COURT RULE

It becomes more apparent that the decision of the court regarding the points of law involved will be the telling factor in the Kline-Succop trial. A court's ruling on whether wicked intent is the only thing to be considered in the counts against the defendants is expected only after a spirited argument between the rival attorneys.

Case after case of contracts awarded to other than low bidders were followed yesterday by a parade of the rejected bidders themselves, who said they were capable and financially able to have performed the contracts.

John D. Houston, the man who started the investigation in the Department of Supplies with a letter to Council, was let severely alone by the defense in cross examination. He got in one thrust when asked in direct examination if he could meet the city specifications, saying:

"Yes, insofar as the specifications were understandable."

Houston, it was said, was prepared for a thorough grilling in cross examination, but the defense passed him up.

TELLS OF CODE

Like some weird detective story, was the evidence presented by W. C. Clydesdale, steward at Mayview. He said he marked the cans of the L. H. Parke Company by placing a period at a greater distance from the name of the food than in the case of the other brands of goods. The black dots on the label were farther from the name "apples," for instance, on the Parke cans. Strange to say, no one knew this fact but himself, according to his testimony.

The canned goods for Mayview were selected by Succop, Dr. J. S. Hammers and a party of dieticians, he disclosed. All marks of identification were supposed to have been removed from the cans, and the selection was to rest on quality.

The prosecution threw at him time and again the question:

"Why did you do it?"

He replied:

"For my own information. I wanted to see that the Parke company was not putting in any specially packed cans of samples."

FOES OF LEAGUE WIN HEARING

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(Universal.)—American women opposing the League Court have won their fight for a hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

By a vote of 8 to 7 yesterday, a special meeting was called for Saturday, when the National Woman's Party will be permitted to argue for an equal rights reservation to the League Court protocol.

The reservation provides that American entry into the court shall be conditioned on the acceptance by the league tribunal of a code of international law assuring no inequalities based on sex. The League of Nations heretofore has refused to guarantee equal rights for men and women, the party charged.

Meanwhile, a delegation from the National Woman's party urged President Hoover to support the equality reservation. The delegation was so large it could not get into the President's office and overflowed into the lobby.

Canada Considering Control of Radium

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5.—(AP.)—Government control of radium production and conservation in Canada is receiving the "immediate and earnest" consideration of the government, Arthur Meighen, leader of the Senate, told that body yesterday. He said:

"It looks as though Canada had a supply of radium of inestimable value to this country and to the world, such as to imply the necessity of a thorough and most careful investigation."

DELAY IN 'FIX' TRIALS LIKELY

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, May 5.—The embracery cases against the eight persons indicted by the March grand jury which investigated an alleged plot to tamper with the first Kline-Succop jury panel, may not be called next week as originally scheduled, Butler's District Attorney, Edgar H. Negley, revealed here today. His reason for delaying the start of the embracery trials, Negley declared, was the Kline trial.

Those under indictment include Mrs. May Daugherty Scott, wife of a Pittsburgh detective; her brother, Bert Daugherty; the Rev. Father Francis Clifford, of Butler County; R. J. Cunningham, Pittsburgh contractor; William Cook, of Hilliard, Butler County; Roy Eakin, of Bakerstown; Howard Gross and Lee Norris.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for tonight at the office of Alderman F. H. Davy, of Butler, for Charles H. Flick, Bakerstown real estate man, alleged to have had a part in a second alleged tampering plot uncovered here on the eve of the trial now under way.

Flick, instead of waiving a hearing, as is customary in the majority of such cases, has insisted on being given a preliminary hearing, W. D. McBride, said to have been implicated in the plot with Flick, has waived.

FULL PARDON ASKED FOR 4 IN HAWAII

restore to the four their civil rights. Clarence Darrow, veteran chief of defense counsel, said he thought "federal action might be taken to restore them; we are satisfied."

Hewitt said he had not determined whether they could be pardoned by the President, but added that such action would be "an extraordinary proceeding." A move for an outright pardon was begun by a group of citizens.

In commuting the sentence, Gov. Judd announced he had acted upon the petition of the four defendants and their counsel asking executive clemency. The Governor also made public a petition bearing the names of 104 members of Congress asking an unconditional pardon for the four. The name of Representative Thatcher headed the signatures.

CONVICTED FRIDAY

The four were convicted last Friday after a long trial climaxed by Massie's testimony he shot Kahahawai last January 8 upon hearing the native confess participating with four other men in a criminal assault upon his wife.

Coming on the fifth day after a racially mixed jury had convicted the four and recommended leniency, the commutation put an end to a case which had threatened to drag along in the courts for months or perhaps years. Darrow had been mapping an appeal.

The whole thing was over one hour after the defendants had been called into court. With Darrow and George S. Leisure, of the defense, and Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley present, Judge Charles S. Davis pronounced the sentences.

In each case the sentence, as required by law, was not more than 10 years at hard labor in Oahu Island Prison.

There was no demonstration. None besides authorities, defendants' attorneys, newspapermen and a few friends knew of the move and there was no police guard.

Navy Transfers Massie To San Francisco

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—The Navy Department, on the recommendation of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, commandant of the Hawaiian naval district, today ordered Lieut. Thomas H. Massie to duty in the San Francisco naval district.

A recommendation was awaited from Stirling regarding the transfer of the two enlisted men, A. O. Jones and Edward J. Lord, also convicted in the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai.

Meanwhile, the House Judiciary Committee indefinitely postponed action on bills to grant pardons to those convicted in the slaying. The committee also took no action on the Bingham bill to prevent two "hung juries" in Hawaii from operating to acquit defendants.

Chairman Sumners, of the committee, said that the bills might be taken up later, adding that depended upon developments in the island. He indicated that, if no further disturbing incidents happen there, the measure might be allowed to expire peacefully.

The attitude of the committee was that the island governor had in effect granted a pardon to the four Americans convicted of slaying the Hawaiian.

Sumners said the question of restoring citizenship to the Americans was not discussed at length, adding that he felt the Governor could return their civil rights if he saw fit.

GIBBONS URGES FULL MASSIE PARDON

Headline Hunter Launches Appeal to Remove Stain Of Honor Case Conviction

By FLOYD GIBBONS

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, May 5.—Hello, everybody. Is everybody happy? I received the news hot off the Universal Service wires last night. Boy, oh, boy, what a thrill.

They're free.

It was not a pardon. It was a commutation of sentence.

They are free, but that's not enough. The conviction still stands against them.

Hawaiian politics has branded that American mother, that American Naval officer husband and those two American bluejackets—branded them as convicts.

Convicted of manslaughter.

BLAMES POLITICIANS

The politics and politicians responsible for the conditions which permitted the attack on Mrs. Massie, remain the same.

The Hawaiian sense of justice which set free the five Asiatics who attacked the American girl, remains the same.

The anti-white bitterness of the predominantly Asiatic population which brought about the conviction of the four Americans remains the same.

The Asiatic Hawaiian attitude of bitterness toward the United States Navy and all of its officers and personnel remains the same.

It was the pressure of your letters and telegrams to Washington that forced the hand of Hawaiian politics to relinquish its hold on the four defendants.

URGES NEW APPEAL

Now for some more letters to Washington and this time to put the pressure on harder than ever. Call upon your representatives to change the organic act under which Asiatic politics have taken control of the Hawaiian Islands.

Call upon your representatives to place the islands under the administration of a military commission.

Hawaii is a fort. Hawaii is the nation's most important defense in the Pacific.

It is the keystone of peace.

Americanize it by placing it under a military commission.

DEMAND FULL PARDON

HONOLULU, May 5.—Full and unconditional pardons for Mrs. Grace Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and the two sailors!

Such was the demand made of Gov. Lawrence Judd yesterday by enthusiastic participants in a mass meeting held under auspices of the Citizens' Committee for Good Government. Mrs. Anne Kluegel, chairman of the organization, said:

"The Governor did something great in granting commutations of sentences, but it was not great enough.

"The people of Honolulu will not be satisfied until the Governor restores these people to their full rights and removes the stain which now hangs over them."

Mrs. Pollard, Wife Of Va. Governor, Dies

BOLTS KILL 2 IN STORM

CHARLEROI, Pa., May 5.—(AP.)—While sowing oats on his farm, near Bentleyville, today Joseph Greenlee, 69, was struck by lightning and killed, according to a morgue report. Russell Smiley and Lee McDonald, Greenlee's sons-in-law, were knocked down and burned slightly, the report said.

Greenlee was a brother of William R. Greenlee, former Washington County Coroner. Relatives broadcast news of the death by radio in an effort to reach a son, Charles, who is en route to Jamestown, N. Y., by motor.

MARTINS FERRY, O., May 5.—Lawrence Boyd, 52, Flushing farmer, was killed by lightning today milking a cow, according to a police report. A cow Mrs. Boyd was milking nearby was stunned by the bolt, falling on Mrs. Boyd and injuring her slightly.

Gibbons' Aid Brings Thanks of Darrow

HONOLULU, May 5. — (Universal.)—In his first crowded hour following the freeing of his clients Clarence Darrow took a few minutes' time to send a cablegram to Floyd Gibbons, his oldtime Chicago friend. Briefly sending his well wishes and thanks for Gibbons' fiery activity in the case, he added:

"I know you are rejoicing with us."

SINGER SUICIDE LOVE TRAGEDY

By WILLIAM PARKER

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

PARIS, May 5.—The tragic romance of Lucille Chalfant, American singer, which culminated in her suicide in a Berlin apartment, was revealed to International News Service today.

A friend of the dead singer expressed belief she took her life because of unrequited love.

The object of Miss Chalfant's "grand passion," the friend revealed, was a wealthy New Yorker who owns mines in Chile and is a partner in one of New York's largest motion picture theaters.

Their acquaintance began more than 10 years ago, when the New Yorker first heard Miss Chalfant, a descendant of Jenny Lind, sing. He offered to finance her musical career.

Miss Chalfant, her friend declared, fell in love with her benefactor, believing him unmarried.

CITY PURCHASES DEFENDED BY PRICHARD

BUTLER, Pa., May 5.—Attorney Charles B. Prichard, chief counsel for Mayor Charles H. Kline, addressing the jury at the opening of the defense in the Kline-Succop trial today, said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is the first opportunity these defendants have ever had to present their side of these charges before a fair and impartial tribunal, and we propose to show by witnesses and documents what the circumstances surrounding all these transactions brought before you here were."

CITES FURNITURE CASE

Citing a particular case, Prichard explained that he would show that the structure of the Puffinburg Furniture Company was solid, honest and founded by upright, responsible citizens. He declared:

"When the people of Pittsburgh voted a two and a half million dollar bond issue to care for unfortunates at the City Hospital at Mayview, the Mayor turned over to Mrs. Enoch Rauh, a fine woman with ability, the work of carrying this project through.

"Mrs. Rauh retained an able corps of architects, engineers, etc., and obtained the best of advice on interior decoration problems—she consulted with the city's leading department stores and when Mr. Puffinburg, an authority on furniture, came to her, she sent him to Dr. Hammers to work with him for the best interest of the institution under construction and the taxpayers of the City of Pittsburgh."

DEFENSE BASIS HINTED

Prichard told the jury that Director Succop did not know Puffinburg at all. Every step to insure good merchandise for Mayview was taken, he said. Samples of all goods purchased were submitted and in an investigating committee composed largely of officials from the Department of Welfare made the selections, Prichard said.

Councilman Harry Little inspected three used trucks offered to the city by Henry Braun and reported that they should be bought and that their purchase would save money for the city, Prichard declared. He said Little had had experience in the transfer business. Prichard appeared to be revealing what the defense would be when he said:

"They did not advertise for bids but they did not act willfully, wrongfully or corruptly."

It appears that Prichard will admit technical violation of the law and stress the contention that these violations were not inspired by greed.

BACKS COAL PURCHASE

Prichard declared the coal buying was done for three pumping stations and that considering the deal as a whole the city saved money by purchasing from Hillman Company. He said:

"We will show you by the testimony of engineers that we saved money on coal."

That the Mayor was in Europe when the larger order for Parke canned goods was placed August 19, 1930, and could have known nothing about it, was Prichard's defense on the canned goods indictment.

Director Succop knew of the method used in purchasing meats, but he did not devise it, it was pointed out. Prichard said:

"He merely followed the practice of the department."

ADVISED TO BUY

Prichard said Controller Kerr told Succop Howard Heinz had advised him to buy great quantities of canned goods in 1929 because prices might be boosted as a result of the drought. Prichard said:

"If they had not met the emergency, there would be scurvy and starvation at Mayview today."

The money to buy the canned goods came from an idle city emergency fund which was almost depleted, Prichard said.

The defense will call President of Council John S. Herron to testify that Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh came to him and asked for some emergency action during a crime wave to get a high powered car for police use, it was revealed by Prichard.

Prichard did not close his address before recess. He asked the Judge to continue for about 30 minutes, but the Judge said:

"You had better not talk to a hungry jury—or Judge."

Graft Play Backers Battle N. Y. Ban

NEW YORK, May 5.—(INS.)—Hinting underground political censorship prevented them from putting the play "Merry-Go-Round" on Broadway, its producers today planned court action to force License Commissioner Geraghty to issue a temporary license for a theater for the production.

Geraghty, denying the play dealt with criminal alliances between racketeers and grafting politicians influenced his action, refused to license the theater until proper inspection was made.

Lancaster's Diary Reveals Prelude to Tragic Mystery In Keith Miller Home

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

MIAMI, Fla., May 5.—Universal Service yesterday revealed vital sections of the diary of Capt. W. N. Lancaster which are expected to play an important part in the charge against him for the alleged murder of Haden Clarke.

Herewith, in the section of the diary which [illegible] the crimes the strange [illegible] and Lancaster [illegible] Mrs. Keith Miller [illegible] Clarke went [illegible] with the other [illegible] records the [illegible] and a visit to a [illegible] Killed a Man.

FINED, SCORES JUSTICE

On January 6 Lancaster's diary recounts how Clarke had an automobile accident while Mrs. Keith Miller was driving while intoxicated and adds:

"Spent an hour in jail."

The diary continues:

"Miami, Jan. 7.—Fined $50 with suspended sentence. American justice all wet.

"Miami, Jan. 10.—Outlook for future none too bright. Chubbie very depressed.

"Miami, Jan. 13.—Chubbie raises hell about lack of cash. Do not blame her.

"Miami, Jan. 14.—Chubbie raises hell about our agreement with landlady as the 15th came to conclusion that desperate situations call for desperate measures. I prepared my application for citizenship in the U. S. A.

HUNT FOR WORK

"Miami, Jan. 25.—I start for New York on a bus to look for a job. Wish Chubbie were with me. Silly to leave her.

"New York, Jan. 26.—Telephoned Chubbie and she disappoints me greatly by her failure to be her sweet self for a few moments. It's a dog's life.

"New York, Jan. 28.—Miss Chubbie more than anything. Cannot raise cash anywhere. Sick of New York.

"New York, Feb. 2.—Miss Chubbie terribly. Borrowed $10.

"New York, Feb. 3.—Am in a cold sweat. Two telegrams from Chubbie saying I must call her—important. What can it be? This urgent call has knocked me flat. If anything has happened to her I shall suffer as I have never suffered in my life. Just talked to Chubbie. It is wonderful to hear her voice. I love her more than my life. I think she needs me. If I did not think this I would give my life to make her happy. I am leaving New York soon as I can. Longing to hold Chubbie once again."

MEETS CLARKE

"Miami, Feb. 7.—No Chubbie to meet me at the field. Very disappointing. Chubbie came in later. Chubbie sweet, but fear I expect too much.

"Miami, Feb. 9.—Met Haden Clarke, a writer. First impression of him very good. He is going to ghost a book for Chubbie.

"Miami, Feb. 10.—Visit a movie with Chubbie, "I Killed a Man," with L. Barrymore—pretty good. Haden Clarke and I have had a heart-to-heart talk. Like him very much. Chubbie sweet.

"Miami, Feb. 12.—Haden Clarke has moved in 2221 West 21 Terrace (where Lancaster and Mrs. Keith Miller lived).

(NOTE—There are many other notations in the diary referring to daily routine, but these are not material to Lancaster's association with Clarke or his love for Mrs. Keith Miller.)

Lancaster Bought Pistol in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—(AP.)—Records in the Circuit Court clerk's office here show that Capt. W. N. Lancaster, charged at Miami, Fla., with the murder of Haden Clarke, fiance of Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, purchased a .38 caliber revolver in St. Louis on April 19.

Werner Luecke, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court, said that in applying for a permit to purchase a revolver Lancaster explained he intended to carry the weapon on transcontinental airplane flights.

Senate Calls Hirsh in Probe

gal sales representative of the Poole company.

The attachment, he said, the company and Pearson is reported to have been made at the suggestion of Hirsh. Pearson, who has charge of the Independent Republican headquarters in the primary election, is a friend of Paul Hook, one of the Republican leaders of Schuylkill County.

GLADSTONE, COOKE HERE

Both Gladstone and Cooke were in Pittsburgh yesterday. S. Prather Brady, president of the bankrupt Poole Engineering and Machine Company, was invited to appear before the committee by a telegram from Senator Harris.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, representing Hirsh, has agreed to meet with Frank today and make accessible the records and contracts of the Electromatic company which Hirsh volunteered to produce for the county probers Friday. Hirsh, at the bankruptcy hearing in Baltimore a week ago refused to permit examination of his books. Upon his return here Monday he will be informed Frank that he would not produce the books until after consulting Eaton.

Eaton, however, issued the following statement:

"Representing H. D. Hirsh, to whom certain requests have been made by the law department of Allegheny County for information in respect to the contract for the voting machines, I desire to state that I am at a loss to understand why such unusual demands are made of Mr. Hirsh, especially in view of the fact that after due advertisement the contract was let to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company at a price of $100 less per machine than offered by any other builder. The machines are built according to the specifications fixed by the state and the county, and surety bonds are held by the county to compel performance by the manufacturer of its contract in respect to these machines.

UNFAIR DEMAND

"It is obvious that similar requests are not made to other persons who have done work for or had contracts with Allegheny County, and I regard the demand made of Mr. Hirsh as most unfair and prejudiced.

"It is true that Mr. Hirsh obtained manufacturing and sales rights for this machine for 17 states, including Pennsylvania, and, after having obtained these rights, Mr. Hirsh and his associates advanced large sums of money in connection with the proposed manufacture of these machines. Ultimately, the Poole Engineering and Machine Company manufactured the machines under the manufacturing and sales rights held by Mr. Hirsh and his associates, under a written contract, by virtue of which certain royalties and profits were paid, through the Commercial Credit Company, by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company to C. G. Brown, who acted for himself and as agent for Mr. Hirsh and other associates. These associates were F. I. Hirsh, E. R. Rosenthal and C. G. Brown, all of Pittsburgh.

"In the course of their work Mr. Hirsh and his associates caused the Electromatic Voting Machine Company to be incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware, and a conditional contract was made, assigning the manufacturing and sales rights held by Mr. Hirsh to the Voting Machine Company upon certain terms and conditions.

"SUPERIOR MACHINE"

"In substance, the situation is simply that a contract for voting machines was awarded to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, which was the lowest bidder, and which offered a superior machine to the county of Allegheny, some of which machines the county is now using, one of them having been voted 20,000 times, as we are informed, in demonstration without any difficulty or mishap.

"I am giving the county access to the contracts and all the records in my possession and have promised Senator Harris and his committee the same information.

"This information will show that out of royalties collected, amounting to $169,000, more than $50,000, exclusive of legal fees paid to H. D. Hirsh, was paid out for salaries, development, traveling and sales expenses."

EDISON'S WIFE DENIES 'PLOT'

WILMINGTON, Del., May 5.—(INS.)—Mrs. William L. Edison, wife of the second son of the late electrical wizard, today requested International News Service to deny published reports that her husband was the victim of a $50,000 extortion plot.

Reports had indicated that Edison, who recently patented a device to improve radio reception through removal of static, had been quoted a price of $50,000 or else to permit him to market his product unmolested. Mrs. Edison said:

"The true story will be given out by Mr. Edison when he returns home tomorrow."

She admitted, however, that Edison had conferred with Assistant Superintendent of Police Joseph A. Le Strange of Philadelphia. This conference was the basis of the "extortion plot" story.

DRIVE RESULTS PLEASE PRIEST

The advent of warmer weather does not lessen the demand from Father Cox to assist the destitute. The breadline is still distressingly long, and there are no signs to indicate that it will get any shorter in the near future.

In the meantime Father Cox is in need of funds to carry on his work among the needy, and it is gratifying to know that the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive is going to be of substantial assistance to him in his work. To date the results have been most gratifying.

Father Cox

In this drive the Father Cox Relief Fund gets a liberal commission for every new subscription turned in from his friends and admirers. The funds thus secured will help to feed from 2,500 to 3,000 unfortunate in his daily breadline at Old St. Patrick's and will also help to furnish baskets of food for hundreds of Pittsburgh families in distress.

If you wish to help Father Cox send in your order, either to Father Cox or to the Sun-Telegraph, to have this paper delivered to your home by carrier.

BAYNE BURIAL RITES HELD

Bayne, who lived at 3953 Brighton road, until after his retirement in 1921, died at Vero Beach, Fla.

From the time the new penitentiary on Preble avenue was opened in 1884 until his retirement, he served as doorkeeper, opening the gates through which thousands and thousands of prisoners and visitors passed and departed.

Bayne opened the gates for James and Helen Boyle, the kidnapers of Willie Whitla, the McCabe boys, Walter Dorman, associate of the Biddle boys, the dozen or more politically prominent convicted in the Old City Council graft case.

Former County Treasurer John Francies, one of the wardens under whom Bayne served, said his memory for faces was phenominal and that he recognized a second-termer as soon as he came to the gate.

Fast for Jobless Postponed for Mothers' Day

SALT LAKE CITY, May 8.—(AP)—Utah's day of prayer and fasting for the relief of unemployment will be postponed a week because Sunday, the day originally chosen by Gov. George H. Dern, is Mothers' Day.

The Governor has urged the people of the state to devote the cost of meals they ordinarily would eat Sunday, May 18, to relief of the needy.

"It might not have been such a bad way to celebrate mothers' day, after all," opined George C. Sutherland, secretary to the Governor.

"I'm sure many a mother would have enjoyed a day's vacation from the kitchen."

N. J. Senators Aid Hoover Plant Tree

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(INS.)—An elm tree was planted in the south grounds of the White House yesterday. It was said to have been grown from a cutting taken from the tree at Belleville, N. J., under which George Washington rested during his retreat across New Jersey.

FOOD PLEDGED IN FAMILY AID

A basket of food, daily for three months, is the promise made by a Pittsburgh woman to the Family-Help-Family campaign for the needy of Allegheny county. In a letter to the committee she named the store from which the goods are to be purchased, saying the management had been instructed to charge the supply to her account.

Much progress among women's committees in the county is reported by Mrs. Saul Lavine and Mrs. Templeton Smith, leaders.

Many families have been cared for through the coupons appearing in the daily papers. These coupons, indicating that the signer is willing to undertake the obligation of contributing $100, or a part thereof, toward the support of a family for three months, are being turned over to the Emergency Association. The association, through the seven welfare organizations, investigate each family to eliminate duplication. Having assigned a family to a contributor, the welfare organization will check up from time to time, keeping in touch with both the family and the contributor.

ASK FOR WORK AT CUT WAGE

Petitions were being circulated today among former employes of the Standard Sanitary Company plant in Woods Run, asking officials to reopen the plant and declaring the employes would voluntary take a reduction of 10 per cent of the salary they were making when the plant closed recently.

The plant provides employment for approximately 600 workers. Of this number about 400 have signed the petition.

Theodore Tafel, Jr., general manager of the Pittsburgh works, informed the former employes he would present their proposal to officials at a meeting later this week. Meanwhile signatures are still being obtained by Charles Demko, James Bracken and Andrew Lucas, former workers.

Continuing a relief program started several weeks ago, the company yesterday distributed approximately 300 baskets of groceries to former employes. The distribution took place at the Woods Run plant.

New Horne-Parry Portrait Studio

It is conveniently located on the Balcony, immediately adjoining the Charm Shop. We believe that it will prove a welcome service to many of our patrons who would like to have pictures of themselves and the children made, from time to time, but put it off for one reason or another. We have made our new studio just as convenient, attractive, and inviting as possible—to encourage people's having pictures made often, as a visual record of their progress through life.

If any assurance is necessary of the high calibre of work which we are prepared to do, it is offered by the fact that Florence Fisher Parry will supervise the work of this department. All pictures will be finished in the Parry Studio, in the Wm. Penn Hotel, which Mrs. Parry will continue to operate.

Shirt-Type Frocks

With "Golf Swing" Sleeves Inspired by Men's Shirts

At last—frocks designed for golf as it is actually played. With sleeves set in exactly as a man's shirt sleeves, allowing complete freedom for your swing, with no strain on the back, and no hiking-up or slipping down, anywhere.

Instead of being a class-room product of somebody who got her ideas from golf pictures, they are the work of a designer who interviewed a cross-section of regular women golfers on what they really expected of a dress, in action. And since, among other points on which opinions were varied, they differed in their ideas of "taking the sun," some of the dresses are made with high necklines and long sleeves, others have long sleeves and convertible necklines, and still others have short sleeves and open sports collars.

All the fabrics are washable. Russian cord, pin-striped cotton shirting, in dresses at $15. And striped and pin-check silks in models at $19.75.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Girl Believes Personality Causes Her Troubles

Mary Jane is "going crazy".

Doesn't know her own mind. Says and does things one minute; regrets them a second after. Never knows what she'll pull off next.

Consequently, she's piling up a not so good reputation for herself.

Is there anything she can do about it? Mary Jane fears there isn't.

"For," says she, "I have personality and that's the root of all the trouble."

Yeah? Seems to me I've heard the alibi before. In fact, I've used it myself. And is it baloney!

AN UNHAPPY MARRIAGE

Dear Sally Martin:

For a long time I have been wanting to write to you and at last I have taken my pen grimly in hand and here I am. I want you to tell me just what ails me.

I am 19 and about as unsettled in my mind as a squirrel. I don't know why, but I always was carefree and full of fun. I know all girls go through a boy crazy stage and act silly, but I don't seem to have gotten over mine.

I've gone with boys since I was about 12, but I never was wild. I was more of just a good pal and friend to all the boys. I never took a drink and never smoked and all the boys seemed to respect me and stay good friends.

Then, when I was only 17, I thought I knew it all and I ran away and got married to a boy who was under age and also of a different religion. My folks knew all about it, and were wonderful, but his folks almost died from the shock. To make a long story short, we separated after living together about six months.

HIGH IDEALS GONE

Now, since I'm married, I suppose it's natural that I should have lost some of my high ideals and my morals. I started going with fellows a lot older than myself, as well as those of my own age. I have gone to wild gin parties and I've smoked.

My father says I have a lot of good sense, but I don't use it.

Understand, however, I have never been a bad girl, but I feel as though I would be if I keep this up. I certainly wish I could be like I used to be. Do you really think I could be? I dance and play cards and have a nice personality, though I really believe the personality is the cause of all my trouble.

Last night one of my boy friends told me I was too fickle and spoiled, and I suppose I am, being that I am the only child. I know I say things one minute and am sorry for them the next, and I guess I am fickle.

Right now I am out of a job, and that probably has a lot to do with it. I have too much time to think about myself. Anyway, I know there is something radically wrong and I want you to tell me exactly what it is.

I know it's not going to be so nice, but I deserve a good strong talk of some kind, I know. I'm going crazy from the state of mind I'm in, so please help me. What's wrong?

MARY JANE.

FOLLOWING OWN DESIRES

Sez you! Well, now listen to me!

There's no deep, dark mystery about your problem. Fate didn't hang a trick personality to you that has doomed you to go whirling in dizzy circles. Nor has marriage deprived you of ideals and morals.

You're just raising cain because you want to; and you can stop it and when you want to.

You're not even unusually tempted. Every girl with an ounce of red blood in her wants to cut loose and raise whoopee. Every girl wants to play with fire. So there is nothing unique about your desires. You're just kidding yourself — flattering yourself that you pack more dynamite than the other femmes.

Cut it out!

If you want to be a rotter, go out and be one, sister, and see if I care. But don't come whining around, making alibis, and pretending you don't know all the answers.

You're smart. Then act it! And here's one who'll root for you the minute you do!

OH WELL! I HAD THE BEST YEARS OF HIS LIFE!
AN OLD FOOL MARRIED TO A FLAPPER
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Most men who have risen to fame and fortune would not think of leaving their wives if it weren't for the endless pursuit and flattery of ambitious younger women.

And when the wife of such a man does find herself replaced by one of these girls she should not feel too badly about it. She has not lost the young man she fell in love with and married. No one on earth will ever take him from her.

She has only lost what was left of him. And it can be said to the credit of such wives that most of their heartache is not so much at losing this old husband as it is to see what an old fool the young man has become.

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Wrong Food or Clothing May Give You the Hives

Many of my readers have requested information about "urticaria," which is the medical name for "hives." Many call it "nettle-rash." In this condition there is a rash, or an eruption of the skin, that consists of numerous small red spots. These enlarge and may become as big as a 50-cent piece. Fortunately the rash usually lasts only for a few hours, but in severe cases it may be prolonged for a few days. The swellings disappear, but often reappear at definite times of the day. Any part of the skin may become affected. It is found in adults, but is more common in childhood than in later life.

Dr. Copeland

For many years the cause of hives was not recognized. Now it is believed to be due to a sensitivity to certain substances. These substances are usually present in certain foods, but may be found in clothes, homes and materials used in various occupations.

The prevention and cure of the disease is easy when the cause is discovered and removed. Most sufferers from urticaria know that they are sensitive to certain foods. This they have learned by unfortunate experiences. When they avoid these foods they do not suffer from hives. It is only when they are careless about eating that the rash appears.

I have known many persons who were fond of sea food, but unfortunately, whenever they partook of this tempting food they "broke out" in a rash and suffered for many hours.

Sensitivity to clothes as a cause of hives is illustrated by the following story. A young woman suffered from hives and her attacks always occurred on Sundays. Though every effort was made to determine to what food she was sensitive, no relief was found. It was finally noted that on Sundays she wore a certain silk blouse and that her sensitivity to silk was the cause of the hives. When the silk garment was discarded her hives were cured.

In acute cases, where the itching and inflammation is very severe, relief can be obtained by applying a solution of hyposulphate of soda. Dissolve a tablespoonful in half a glass of water and apply to the inflamed skin. Where the rash involves the whole body, place a half pound of hyposulphite in a tub half full of water and bathe in that. These baths may be taken twice a day for a duration of 20 minutes.

Where relief cannot be obtained and the hives are persistent, it is wise to consult a doctor. In a very severe case it may be necessary to give a hypodermic injection of adrenalin. This can only be done under the supervision of a physician.

Engagement Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to attend an engagement party which will be held in a hall. Please let me know if it is proper to send a gift. If so, will I send it to the hall or to the intended bride's home?

D. A. H.

It is not necessary to send a gift, but it is proper, if you wish. Engagement gifts are not much "done" now except by relatives and very close friends. But it is as you wish, since a gift represents a personal reaction.

If you do send the gift, send it to the home of the bride-to-be.

Wedding Acknowledgments

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly tell me whether it is proper for the bride or groom to acknowledge the gifts if the wedding is formal or informal?

A READER.

Whether the wedding is formal or informal makes no difference in the rule that the bride should acknowledge all wedding gifts. All wedding gifts should be sent to the bride, and therefore it is reasonable that she write the notes of thanks for them. She signs them herself, too, with only her own name.

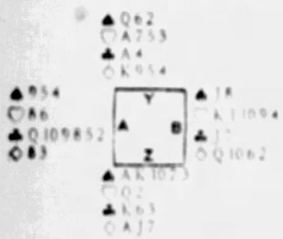
OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Excellent Deductions and Strategy

Expert card reading is so above the heads of nearly all players that the deductions drawn and the strategy based upon these conclusions seems like inspired magic. Carefully reading the deductions drawn from what happened on the hand given below will prove illuminating to players who seek to become experts.



Z made an opening bid of 2-Spades upon 7½ probable tricks. Having 8¼ probable tricks, Y had visions of at least a small slam. He raised to 2-No-Trumps to discover more about his partner's suit distributions. As a semi-forcing bid obligates no response except upon real strength, Z did not hesitate to bid 3-Spades, which Y jumped to 6-Spades.

The opening lead was the 8 of clubs. Counted as a fourth best, the Rule of Eleven showed one higher club than the one led by B. The higher card could not be the 9 as then A would have led the Q from Q-J-10. It could not be the Q as the J would have been led from J-10-9. B's higher club must either be the 10 or the J. Dummy's Ace won the trick. The 7 played by B could not be anything except the lower of two cards, showing that A originally held six clubs. That meant that both B and the dummy could trump the third round of clubs. With the J-9-8 of spades missing it was almost certain that B would be able to outruff dummy unless Y trumped with the Q. This Z did not like to do. The best thing appeared to be a trial lead of spades to discover what opponents held in trumps. A low spade from dummy was won by Z's K. B dropped the 8, and A the 4, but either of them might hold the J-9-5 or no more. If either held all missing spades, probably it would be B, as A had so long a club suit. If B held all the missing trumps he probably would be cunning enough to false-card, but a lead of a low trump from Z's hand would unmask B as A would show out of trumps. A low spade was led. A played his 4, and the trick was won with the Q, dropping the missing J.

Dummy's last club was led, won with the K, and Z's remaining club was trumped with Y's last spade. To fulfill his dangerous contract, Z had to win at least three diamond tricks. He led a low diamond from dummy and won the trick on a finesse of his J. Of course, he next pulled A's last trump. Now Z was certain of fulfilling his contract. The only losing card remaining in his hand was the Q of hearts. Visions of a small slam were held. On the lead of Z's last club, B had shown possession of the K of hearts, by his discard of the J of hearts. Z happened to also hold the Q of diamonds, a grand slam could be made, either because the diamonds were divided 3-3, or by squeezing B. Z still held two of each—spades, hearts and diamonds. Z led the lowest heart that he held and won the trick with dummy's Ace. He gained entry to his hand by leading a diamond and winning with his Ace, giving him his ninth straight trick. Upon his next lead of a spade, one of dummy's hearts was discarded, and B let go his lower heart. When Z led his last spade, he discarded dummy's last heart, leaving in dummy the K-9 of diamonds. B saw that he surely must lose in case he let go a diamond. He did not feel certain who held the missing Q of hearts, and he had to gamble that his partner might hold it. B let go his last heart. Z won the twelfth trick with his good heart and the last trick with Y's K of diamonds.

Household Hints

Two tablespoonfuls of kerosene in the pail of hot soapy water used to clean wooden floors will keep them white and will also destroy any small insects that may abide in the crevices.

Use starch for cleaning soiled wall paper. Sprinkle liberal quantities over a damp cloth, and apply to the paper, working with a circular movement. Particular attention should be given to parts that are badly soiled.

To remove fruit stains from fabrics, pour boiling water on to them from the height of a few feet as soon as possible after they have been made; there are very few stains which will not yield entirely to this treatment. If the fabric is delicate, it is safer to sponge the stain with hot water.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A massage of the scalp every night aids the growth of the hair. Move the flesh about so that fibers relax, permitting a free flow of blood through veins, arteries and capillaries.

Women who hate to walk, who leap into the gasoline chariot and loll among the cushions, get hippy, and hips are no help these days when frocks are getting sheathier and slinkier. Walking stirs the liver and spirits to a state of pleasant emotion. It acts upon the digestion, and, by that means, dolls up the complexion with home-grown roses. It was meant that the human body should have muscular activity. Women who have gone in for daily exercise for years hang onto youthful figures, move with grace and bouyancy. It's the lazy little loafer who acquires the squatty shape and who howls with grief over the terrifying total of her hip measurement.

The camomile rinse will brighten blonde hair, bring back sunny glints. Boil two tablespoonfuls of the leaves in a pint of water, strain, cool and pour over the head while the hair is still wet from the shampoo. The camomile brew is not to be rinsed out.

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

Try This One on your FRIGIDAIRE

WE got this story from Kaufmann's super-Chef. First—catch your steaks . . . filet form preferred. Then prepare enough vinegar and red wine solution to cover the steaks. Include allspice, pepper seeds, a bayleaf or two, a teaspoonful of finely chopped onion, and a few bits of carrot. If you like, first dab a little olive-oil over the filets. Then allow them to marinate in the mixture you've prepared —for three days in your Frigidaire. On the third evening, take out your steaks, saute them in a very little bit of fat . . . or use your broiler. If your family doesn't vow that this is the most delectably delicious delicacy in your cooking career . . . we'll eat the whole platterful ourself, and die blissful!

First 'Believe It or Not' Prize Winners Announced

24-Toed Blue Minx Cat Win Book For Woman

Robert L. Ripley's (Believe It Or Not) visit to Pittsburgh accentuated the interest in the "Believe It or Not" contest just started in the Sun-Telegraph, and it is thought that the height of incredibility will reach new peaks from the Pittsburgh area.

It will not be hard to win. Just send to the "Believe It or Not" contest editor, Sun-Telegraph, some unbelievable fact you know which you think would make a good Ripley drawing, enclosing any proof or explanation necessary to make Mr. Ripley believe your unbelievable statement.

DAILY PRIZES

Continuing until May 18, the Sun-Telegraph is going to award daily prizes for the best believe-it-or-nots coming into this office. Each believe-it-or-not winning a daily prize will be sent on to Mr. Ripley to compete for the nine national grand prizes.

Everybody knows a believe-it-or-not. A schoolchild sent this one to Ripley: "Believe It or Not. Atlanta, Georgia, is further west than Detroit, Michigan." It's true. See for yourself. It is right there on the map. There may be others.

The arithmetic books are full of them, too. A high school boy mailed Ripley this one: "The difference between 1 per cent and 2 per cent is 100 per cent." Figure it out for yourself.

There is no end to these things. Maybe you know one. Of course, you know one. Everybody has a believe-it-or-not in their experience and most of them are good ones, too. Come on, send them in!

FIRST WINNERS

E. L. Blystone, Ardara, Pa.; Ira Freeman, 912 Lorenz avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.; George F. Hambleton, 5814 Rural street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Richard Kelly, 2200 Carson street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; James Murdock, R. D. Box 438, Homestead, Pa.; J. I. Allen, 403 Franklin street, Vandergrift, Pa.; A. H. Kratzke, sergeant, highway patrol, Greensburg, Pa.; C. G. Weil, 337 East Du Bois avenue, Du Bois, Pa.; Frank J. Mammel, 713 Kerr street, Ambridge, Pa.; Mrs. C. J. Kerin, 228 Walliston avenue, Emsworth, Pa.; J. B. Sprague, 5510 Broad street, Pittsburgh. The daily prizes are bound copies of Ripley's "Believe It or Not" book.

If you don't find your name in the list soon don't be discouraged. Remember we are going to award these prizes every day for two weeks.

Write legibly on one side of the paper only. Put your name and address on every sheet. Submit proof for all statements. Mail your contribution to the "Believe It or Not Editor" of the Sun-Telegraph.

Contest Rules

1. You may submit as many "Believe It or Nots" as you wish. You do not have to submit any drawings or sketches. Write legibly on one side of the paper. Have your name and address on each sheet of paper if you send in more than one. Each entry must contain the explanation or proof of its truth. The Sun-Telegraph will not be responsible for the return of entries.

2. Contributions will be judged daily for the local prizes. No contribution will be considered which is mailed after midnight, May 16.

3. The contestant agrees to accept the judgment of the Sun-Telegraph in the awarding of the daily prizes. Only contributions winning daily prizes will be forwarded to Mr. Ripley to compete for the grand prizes. The contestant agrees to accept Mr. Ripley's judgment on the grand prize winners as final. Nine grand prize winners will be named in the order of the merit of his or her contribution. The first prize winner will have first choice of the nine grand prizes; the second prize winner will have his choice of the remaining eight prizes, and so on, until the grand prizes are all taken.

4. In case of ties the same prizes will be awarded to all tying contestants.

5. You do not have to buy the Sun-Telegraph to compete in this contest. Files of the Sun-Telegraph may be found at the public library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, where the drawings of Mr. Ripley and the instructions of the contest may be consulted.

"Don't talk to me about those cheap soap chips—"

I use only Chipso now, safe even for colored silks!

I was awfully FOOLISH. I used CHEAP SOAP CHIPS—not realizing how STRONG they were UNTIL they RUINED my NEW SILK NIGHTIE!

Then my GROCER said, "Mrs. Roe, did you KNOW that CHIPSO is SAFE, even for COLORED SILKS?"

So now before I give the wash a CHIPSO SOAK, I first run my SILK THINGS through those RICHER and SAFER CHIPSO SUDS!

Don't let STRONG SOAP ROT your CLOTHES and HURT your HANDS. CHIPSO has NO free LYE—keeps CLOTHES like NEW!

What a LUNCH for Mother!

And it's the easiest thing in the world to prepare. Just fill a bowl with Kellogg's Rice Krispies, pour on milk or cream and add some fruit. There it is! Help yourself! Proteins, energy, vitamins—all in this delicious treat.

Every one likes Rice Krispies because it's such a different cereal. Toasted rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream. Delicious for breakfast. Splendid for the children's supper—so healthful and easy to digest.

Jack said "Clothes cost money!"

No FOOLING! My husband was MAD! His CLOTHES wore out FAST when I WASHED them with STRONG GRANULATED soap.

Believe ME! CHIPSO makes suds FAST—it SOAKS clothes clean in a JIFFY. No HARD RUBBING and our CLOTHES LAST LONGER.

FIRST time you try CHIPSO you'll KNOW it is SAFE for clothes because it makes your HANDS so SMOOTH and NICE!

NEW BUS LINE OPPOSED

Objection was made to granting a certificate to the Brentwood Motor Coach Company to carry passengers between Bon Air and Pittsburgh, by Thomas Fitzgerald, general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, when the hearing was resumed yesterday before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission.

Fitzgerald presented data to show the railways company is steadily losing money and the proposed bus line would be in competition with the Knoxville line. The hearing was adjourned for another week to permit Attorney Thomas M. Murray, representing the Brentwood company, to study the figures presented by Fitzgerald.

FEWER NURSES, HOSPITALS' AIM

There are too many nurses in Pittsburgh, a survey of hospital nurses' training schools and the heads of the state and city nurses' associations revealed today, following a report that nurses in Pennsylvania can expect no more than nine months' work during a year.

In this instance, the falling off of work is not due primarily to economic conditions, but rather to oversupply of nurses, according to the heads of several schools.

Schools are attempting to remedy the situation by cutting down enrollments, according to Miss Edna Wagner, president of the Pittsburgh Nurses' Association. Enrollment at the West Penn Hospital Training School this year is 60 per cent less than two years ago.

Miss Gertrude Heatley, of the South Side Hospital, president of the State Nurses' Association, said hospitals in Pittsburgh have been attempting to cut their number of students for the past two years.

Just for the lack of a clear skin ~ ~ ~

Why not try this reasonable, safe and effective way—

just as others are happily doing?

Say good-bye to a pimply skin

"I am simply overjoyed that my skin is clear again—now I can mingle with my friends and associates with confidence and enthusiasm. It's wonderful the difference it makes in the way you feel and look when your blood strength is right."

Medical authorities stress the importance of building up the system when in a weakened, "run-down" condition, or to combat pimples and boils.

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes, regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Very Much Embarrassed by Pimples. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was very much troubled with pimples that broke out all over my face. They were very large and of a reddish color. The pimples scaled over and itched and when I scratched blisters used to form. They embarrassed me very much and my face was disfigured.

"Finally I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After a week of constant use I noticed a change in my face, and in another week they were completely healed." (Signed) Miss Julia Paterchok, Box 48, Wheatland, Pa., June 2, 1931.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

TOWNS PUSH GAS RATE FIGHT

Public Service Commission Gets Testimony Upholding Grove City District Rates

Gas meters and regulators do not wear out, although inexpensive parts do, and depreciation is small, J. E. Overbeck, a meter expert, of Columbus, O., testified before the Public Service Commission. He was called by the Union Heat and Light Company of Grove City to help sustain that concern in its charge of 65 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas and a meter service charge of 60 cents a month.

The boroughs of Grove City, Sandy Lake, Stoneboro and Volant and other communities have filed a protest against the charge. Commissioner S. Ray Shelby resumed the hearings yesterday.

The protestants claim the rates are excessive. The gas company called a number of experts yesterday to show depreciation in order to help justify rates.

Questioning Overbeck developed that five meters removed from homes of as many consumers to make a test showed cost of repairs, including workmen's time, averaged 55 cents each after the meters had been in service for five years.

CLAIMS FILED AGAINST B. & O.

Claims aggregating $109,000 demanded by five individuals and concerns for property taken in Shaler Township in abolishing and relocating Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossings on Route 72, were presented to Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission, who has been asked to determine what the railroad should pay. The largest claimants and amounts asked are: Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Corporation, $30,000; John H. Hieber and William F. Hieber, $23,000, and Elmer J. Nicklas, $45,000.

Trade Exploitation Charged Against U. S.

Senora Consuelo De Aldag, Mexican lecturer and educator, here to address a public meeting of the Pittsburgh Lodge of the Theosophical Society tonight in Hotel Henry, today charged the United States has been using Pan-Americanism for its own economic expansion. She said the only way for a better understanding to be reached between Latin America and the United States is for both peoples to get acquainted.

Autoist Routs Bandits in Ingram; Three Arrested

AUTOIST TRAPS BANDIT'S HAND IN WINDOW

Gas Station Collector Puts Four Men to Flight in Ingram; Three Arrested

Three men, two of them brothers, were held by city detectives today in connection with the attempted holdup of Fred C. Saturley, of Cottage place, a collector for the Marie Gas Company, in Windgap road, Ingram, yesterday afternoon.

MR. SATURLEY

Those held are Mack Celedonia, 26, and Tony Celedonia, 23, brothers, of 70 McCoy road, Stowe Township, and Joseph Sebastian, 24, of Wills street. Constables E.F. Boyle and Thomas Waugh, of Ingram, captured Mack Celedonia and Sebastian shortly after the attempted holdup. Both were said by City Detective Walter Monaghan to have confessed the attempt. Tony Celedonia, arrested later, denied complicity. The three were held over in Central Police Court today.

BANDITS BLOCK ROAD

Four bandits blocked the road with a stolen automobile, halting Saturley. Mack Celedonia and Sebastian, the officers reported, leveled pistols at Saturley, approaching him from both sides.

When Saturley showed fight, the two who remained in the bandit automobile sped away and the gunmen, also frightened, fled on foot. Mack Celedonia and Joseph Sebastian were captured near the Thornburg Bridge after Boyle had fired a shot at them.

PINIONS MAN'S HAND

Relating the holdup attempt to police, Saturley said:

"When one of the men thrust his gun through the open window of my car, I wound up the window, pinching the man's hand. He dropped the gun in my car. His companion broke the glass and freed him. Both fled when they saw their pals in the automobile speed away."

Saturley was said to have had $4,000 of the company's funds at the time.

Economy Aids Closed Banks' Depositors

Gordon, State Secretary of Banking, in a radio address from KDKA last night said depositors of closed banks will receive a larger proportion of the bans' assets than ever before because expenses of liquidating has been reduced to a minimum. Dr. Gordon was introduced by James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company.

BULLET FOUND IN SLAYING

County detectives today have a .45-caliber bullet, believed to be one of three fired at Vernon P. (Port) Moses, Ross Township constable, killed in Perry Highway early Tuesday morning. The bullet was found in the home of John Shaub, a resident, near the scene of the shooting. Three shots were fired, two bullets passing through Moses' body.

The bullet struck a porch swing, passed through a window, and fell on the floor under the dining table. The bullet was examined by James L. Davidson, county ballistic expert, and will be held as evidence. Detectives say the bullet indicates Moses was shot by racketeers, as the average motorist would not be carrying a .45-caliber weapon.

Everett Turner, Negro, arrested on belief that his auto was used by the killers, was absolved in the Moses case and turned over to city police.

Hurley to Address Equitable Salesmen

CITY TO ENTER TERMINAL CASE

Intervention by the city in the Pennsylvania Railroad's appeal from a decision of the Public Service Commission denying an application for street relocations at the proposed new passenger terminal site, was indicated today by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Attorney W. S. Danzell, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad in the appeal, said the case would be launched before May 11. Waldschmidt said:

"Naturally, the city is a part of this case and is interested in the contemplated action. We will intervene in the appeal and will assist the railroad in every way possible."

Public utilities, including the Duquesne Light Company, Allegheny Steam Heating Company and the Bell Telephone Company, opposed the joint request to the commission for relocation of the streets, on grounds that they would meet great expense in moving utilities lines and property.

HOPE FOR CANAL STIRRED BY HEARING

Progress Seen in Erie-Ohio Proposal; Engineers of Army Impressed by Plea

Prospects of the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio River canal are brighter than ever, George M. Lehman, chief engineer of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of Pennsylvania, said today, following return of the Pittsburgh delegation from Washington, where it took part in a hearing before the Army Board for Rivers and Harbors.

Lehman has been active in promoting the project for 35 years and expressed satisfaction with the manner in which speakers in favor of the Pittsburgh-Youngstown-Ashtabula route had presented their case.

News dispatches from Washington said that although prohibited by law from making any public comment on the hearings, army engineers felt that the Pittsburgh-Youngstown-Ashtabula route had made out a powerful case. With but one exception, every speaker favored this route, it was said.

Col. R. I. Randolph, of Chicago, head of the Mississippi Valley Association; Alex W. Dann, chairman of the Pennsylvania board, and Theodore Brent, economist for the Pennsylvania board, among others, spoke in favor of the Pittsburgh - Youngstown - Ashtabula plan.

Principal opposition to the plan was voiced by railroad interests who were requested by the Army Board to prepare briefs and present them at a later hearing.

'Jack Spratts' In Congress Tax Platter Clean

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The Senate could eat no fat, the House could eat no lean, but between the two of 'em, they taxed the platter clean.

There's a tax on everything except last summer's straw hat, which you were smart enough to throw away.

Now they're figuring on going back to the old reliable wartime excess profits taxes.

That means two blades of grass will grow where but one grew before.

And the lawn mower will get 'em both.

But it's going to be tough after 15 years to collect war boodle. Go after a war profiteer for his golden rewards and he will say:

"What war?"

Those boys have that money sunk so deep you couldn't locate it with a coal miner's lamp.

Send the bloodhounds out after a group photograph of the war profiteers and we bet they come back with a picture of Washington crossing the Delaware.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Declaring that "discouragement pays no dividends," Chief Justice Hughes today told the American Law Institute that this "is not a time for relaxing effort but for redoubling it." He added:

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

About all these primaries prove around the country is that the Democrats have three good men, and the Republicans only one. It looks to me like any man that wants to be President in times like these lacks something.

Wall street is being investigated, but they are not asleep while it is being done. You see where the Senate took that tax off the sales of stocks, did you? Saved 'em $48,000,000. Now why don't somebody investigate the Senate, and see who got to them, to get that tax removed? That would be a real investigation. Yours,

WILL.

Wife's Clash on Golf Links Wins Man Divorce

Harvey R. Puffer, 32, 2977 Glenmore avenue, Dormont, sales manager, who testified he was nearly suspended from the St. Clair Golf Club because of his wife's conduct on the golf course, was granted a divorce from Helen P. Puffer, 31, of 217 Roup street, by Judge Thomas M. Marshall in Common Pleas Court yesterday. Puffer said:

"A charter member of the club unfortunately drove a ball on the green on which she was puting. She sat down and when he came up he apologized and she told him if he ever drove onto a green that she was on she would break his head open with a niblick.

"He reported to the board of governors and they were voting on my suspension. I went before the board and apologized and it was dropped."

Puffer said his wife embarrassed him on vacation trips to Canada and in his sales work, particularly when he had female customers, and that she appointed two of his salesmen to watch him.

At a downtown cafe she once embarrassed him by sending steaks back to the kitchen, it was testified.

KAISER'S SON ISSUES APPEAL TO AMERICA

'Understand Germany,' Plea Of Former Crown Prince Asks; Details Suffering

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, May 5—(AP.)—Friederich Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, Germany's former Crown Prince, in the first interview he has granted since his return from exile in 1923, issued an animated appeal to the American people today to "understand Germany."

Tomorrow is the Crown Prince's fiftieth birthday. His face hardened and his voice became vibrant as feelings pent up during almost nine years of silence seemed to surge within him when he was asked to make a statement. He said:

"I cannot close my eyes to our appalling misery to the constantly growing despair which everybody who is willing to see and hear encounters on every side.

DENIES WAR GUILT

"Claims made about Germany's guilt for the outbreak of the war are untrue and have, besides, long been disproved.

"What about the thesis with which the United States in 1917 entered the war against Germany—the thesis concerning the necessity of fighting in behalf of the liberty of small nations? What a preposterous, fatal mistake!

"Have you proud and free Americans any inkling of what it means to make a proud people submit to special laws and regulations? Is it necessary to point out what it means to take the right of determining its national self-defense from a people with a history of centuries and with boundaries exposed on all sides?"

SCORES TREATY

"This dictate of Versailles, from which the whole world is suffering, and the spirit from which it emanated, are, in the last analysis, responsible for all the disaster of today. True enough, you Americans did not sign it, but—and you will pardon me for saying this — you have made it possible and you continue to tolerate the impossible conditions by it."

The Crown Prince had talked himself into a pitch of excitement. He paused a moment to let his feelings subside. Then he concluded:

"If I were to be successful in catching the ear of the people across the Atlantic with what I have told you, and if thereby I should be able, at least in a certain measure, to help my suffering people, I should regard this as my most beautiful birthday present."

The Rev. Reinhold Neibuhr said he was a modernist, while another of the visitors, the Rev. William B. Spofford, denied the Rev. Mr. Tull's charge the American Civil Liberties Union aided Communist activities in the coal fields.

The New Yorkers said they would gather material for a report to 21 ministers who asked a senatorial inquiry into mine area conditions.

More Powerful than Any Gasoline

The new high-compression motors call for the best motor fuel—Esso. These high-compression motors have reduced clearances. This increases their tendency to knock and means more carbon removal jobs—unless you use Esso. The saving on the cost of one carbon job will more than pay for the extra price on a year's use of Esso.

Esso will also stop unexpected repair bills from gummed-up valves, sulphur or other corrosive elements.

As to performance, give Esso any test for quick starting, acceleration or power against any other fuel and Esso wins.

Whether you think first of your motor or first of your money, either (or any) way you look at it, it pays to use Esso.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ratin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If the bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

VIVIENNE WARE DENIES KILLING FENWICKE

Radio Drama Reaches High Pitch of Tension; Next Trial Session Saturday

Miss Vivienne Ware, beautiful and wealthy, last night took the stand in her own defense and denied she killed Damon Fenwicke.

She said:

"The last time I saw Damon Fenwicke alive was in the garden, the afternoon before he was shot."

Subjected to ruthless grilling by the District Attorney, she told, in a low, hushed voice, of the friendship and love she bore the slain man.

VERDICT BY PUBLIC

The third session of the trial, a radio drama written by Kenneth Ellis, was broadcast over WCAE at 8 o'clock last night. The fourth will begin Saturday night at 9 o'clock. At the conclusion of the fiction-drama, the public may send the verdict—written within 100 words—to the Sun-Telegraph. The motion picture form will appear later at the Stanley Theater.

Miss Ware was the only witness called, with the exception of Dolores Devine, dancer from the Golden Bowl night club. Attorneys brought out the conflict between the women for the love of Fenwicke.

Disagreeing over just what Miss Ware said to Fenwicke when she came into the bachelor's garden and found him with Miss Devine, the District Attorney called the dancer to the stand. She accused the heiress of lying.

DEFENDANT'S STORY

Miss Ware's story was that after seeing the architect in his garden, and warning him he must not see Miss Devine again, she returned home; that evening she went to the theater, left it for her hotel, and then, at home, remembered she had not put her car away. She took it to the garage and then immediately returned to her apartment.

She said:

"The first I heard of Fenwicke's murder was when detectives, at 11 a. m., called to question me. I had not seen him since the previous afternoon."

A physician had previously testified Fenwicke had been slain shortly after midnight.

DIX ONCE WAITER AT 'Y' HERE

Knoxville Woman to Write of Actor Earning Meals

Richard Dix, movie star, waited on tables at the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. for his free meals 18 years ago. And Mrs. Laura H. Sutton, of 320 Zara street, Knoxville, is going to write a story about it. She has Dix's permission.

Dix, whose real name is Ernest Brimmer, came to the Pitt Theater in 1913 with a New York company starring Mary Hall and Robert Gleckler. It was his first theatrical engagement. "doing small parts, making off-stage noise or whatever they had for me to do." His salary was $25 a week.

When rooming at the Hill Top branch of the Y. M. C. A. he met Mrs. Sutton and her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Barber, who were in charge of the restaurant. For eight months he waited on tables "for his meals." Mrs. Sutton said. And he always said that "sometime when I get to be a Broadway star, you can say that I waited on tables." Of course, we gave him the laugh, Mrs. Sutton remarked.

In a recent letter to Mrs. Sutton, Dix said:

"I lived at the Y. M. C. A. because I always had been enthusiastic about the athletics and my mother felt that her boy would be better off there. Believe me, I have often thought of you and your mother and the days of the Hill Top Branch, my 2x4 room, the incline of Mt. Washington and all the rest of it; and I look back upon it with fondest memories. I have no objections to your writing a story about my waiting on tables, but merely to refreshen your memory I did so, first, because I could save my bill and board and secondarily because I liked you and your mother so much."

FOR years there has been generally a striking avoidance of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it has solved the problem! It gives you the protection you want . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

"Fifty million smokers can't be wrong!" So whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly—safeguard your delicate membranes!

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

PLEASE DON'T tell me the story is old. Even though I never heard it before, I'm quite certain that it must have been unfolded in days gone by. At any rate, Mr. Monte Proser, of the Paramount Grill, told it to me the other night and amused me highly. Maybe you, too.

There lived in New York, it seems a highly nervous individual. This bird was so shaky that a spoon of soup was liable to land in his ear or his lap just as readily as it might in his mouth. He had more jumps than a champion hurdler and he employed motions that would have made Gilda Gray turn green with envy.

They finally brought him to the best nerve specialist in town. That is to say, this medico charged the highest prices—and, to the modern way of thinking, that automatically makes him the best. The doctor placed the patient under observation and, two days later, brought forth a large bill and a small diagnosis.

"He must go away," was his startling discovery, "and he must have absolute quiet."

So they bundled the patient in blankets of assorted shapes and sizes, and sent him to a famous resort in the mountains. The hotel was notified of the man's condition and the management promised to do everything possible to maintain a strict quiet in the vicinity of the nervous man's suite.

Two nights later there was a rush of business for the week-end. A well known gambler arrived at the last moment and requested the best room in the house. Nothing was left with the exception of the room next to the bedroom that was occupied by the patient. The manager gave the gambler that room but told him of the situation.

"The man in the next room is really very sick," he was informed. "He's the most nervous individual we've ever had up here, and you know we've had some pips. You'll do both him and the hotel a great favor by being as quiet as possible when you retire at night."

Everything went well the first night, but on the second the gambler ran into difficulties. He found himself a nice crap game among some of the suckers in the hotel, and the suckers had run true to form. At 2 o'clock in the morning, when he was out something like $10,000, the boys decided to quit. And the gambler went upstairs to his room in a thoroughly disgusted frame of mind.

He removed his coat, vest, collar and tie, and flung them all on a chair. He sat down with a grunt and removed his left shoe.

"Can you imagine that?" he muttered to himself. "A man like me dropping 10 grand to those punks? What a sap!"

He threw the shoe to the floor with an angry gesture. It landed with a resounding thud—and the gambler suddenly straightened. He snapped his fingers. He had forgotten all about that sick guy in the next room. No sense in disturbing him just because the gambler had been a fool. So he removed his other shoe very quietly, placed it gingerly on the floor, completed his undressing, snapped out the light and crawled into bed.

About an hour later, when the gambler was fast asleep, there came a pounding at his door. He roused himself with an effort, stumbled to the door and yanked it open.

There stood the nervous man in a nightgown. The light was very dim.

"Well," growled the gambler. "What do you want?

"For heaven's sake," he pleaded, "will you take off your other shoe so that I can go to sleep?" . . . .

FROM Lew Brown, last of the old-time poker players, comes the tale of the two brokers who stood on the corner of Wall street the other afternoon and looked gloomily at each other.

"Jack," said the first, "I feel terrible about conditions. There isn't a man in the world who could possibly feel as low as I do right now."

The second broker threw him a disdainful look.

"There isn't, eh?" he cried. "Let me tell you something, brother. I don't care how low you are—you are still sitting on me!" . . . .

Spells Badly

Paul Kelly Won't Get Role in 'Rain'

Paul Kelly's brief bid for a part in "Rain" is finished. United Artists has decided to give the role of the Marine to Bill Gargan, Broadway actor who has been playing a comedy butler in "The Animal Kingdom." Lewis Milestone expects to begin rehearsals, with Joan Crawford playing Sadie Thompson, of course, about May 15.

Honor Is Given to Flush But Eugene O'Neill Is Left Out

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Voltaire said the only good judges of music were the deaf, and the best judges of painting were the blind. Some people may think the Pulitzer judges were selected on that principle, but when they picked "The Good Earth" for their fiction prize they really showed fine judgment. That award also interests playgoers, because the Theater Guild is planning to present a dramatic version made by Owen Davis, author of a hundred melodramas. But hot controversy will be aroused by the selection of a musical show, "Of Thee I Sing," for the dramatic prize, when there was Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," which everybody expected would receive the award.

Mr. Seibel

It might be worse, because "Of Thee I Sing" is really a meritorious bit of literature. It is in the vein of Aristophanes and W. S. Gilbert, and both of these are literature, though many people do not know it.

We must not judge judges too harshly. We have been told, "Judge not, that ye be not judged," and that applies both to prize committees and those that judge them. Occasionally we see that honor is really given where it is due—and I rejoiced exceedingly the other day to hear that Flush, the cocker spaniel who stars in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," had been made an honorary member of the Michigan Humane Society during the play's run in Detroit.

Which again proves that "every dog has his day." Next we'll hear that the prize for radio diction has gone to Rin Tin Tin.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. FISKE

The humane societies, it seems, are taking a strong interest in theatrical affairs just at present. George Arliss recently presided at a meeting of the Humane Society in New York and suggested that they should erect a monument to Mrs. Fiske for her work in their cause.

Minnie Maddern Fiske had one great consuming passion—to save dumb animals from suffering. I believe that this peaceful woman would have gone into battle with any bruiser who was beating a horse or kicking a dog.

If the New York Humane Society acts on the recommendation of George Arliss, who is its honorary vice president, it would be a beautiful tribute to a real heroine.

That Mrs. Fiske was a real heroine I have always known, and have had a fresh testimonial from Wallace Munro, theatrical manager who is here preparing for the week of Gilbert and Sullivan operas to be sung at the Nixon.

WALLACE MUNRO'S STORY

Wallace Munro was Mrs. Fiske's manager on her last tour. He was with her when she broke down in Chicago, where she was playing "Against the Wind." She was so weak at last that she had to be helped upon the stage and back to her dressing room. He heard her several times during her last performance saying to other players, "I don't believe I can go on with this."

But she kept on by the most amazing exhibition of will power Wallace Munro has ever seen—kept on because she knew all the members of that company would be out of work if she broke down.

Munro has managed 39 women stars since he started out with Lily Langtry and Olga Nethersole—and none, he says, had the devotion to duty and humanity shown by Mrs. Fiske.

He also tells me that Olga Nethersole, who retired from the stage some years ago, is devoting herself to the fight against tuberculosis, that she was in America recently attending a conference for the elimination of the white plague, and that there is no social worker in England that works harder than this actress who used to be the best Paula Tanqueray and one of our best Camilles.

People in the dramatic profession are able to put themselves into the skin of other people, to feel what others feel, and so are perhaps better qualified than many others to "do as they would be done by."

Raymond Given Lead In New Picture

Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

"Hay Fever," the original engagement of which was postponed, and which now is listed as a certainty for the Alvin, opening next Monday, is a comedy by Noel Coward, English playwright who has been pretty consistent in providing hits for the American stage for several seasons, including "Private Lives," that made us laugh last fall. "Hay Fever" comes as the final Professional Players bill and will be visible at daylight shows Wednesday and Saturday as well as all nites.

When the Civic Light Opera Company comes to the Nixon the week of May 16 for a splurge of Gilbert and Sullivan, with a bill of four of their most popular musical whimsies, audiences will be hearing, among others, Howard Marsh, singing the romantic roles. He has appeared here frequently in operettas. Vera Ross, one of the greatest Katishas "The Mikado" has given to the stage, will portray that funny Japanese "old maid" when "The Mikado" is sung as one of the final bills of the week.

Velez Is Star In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The movies have changed "The Broken Wing," novel stage melodrama of a few years ago, into a highly diverting screen comedy, which is now on view in the Fulton. The title remains the same, also much of the central theme, but they've made over the big punch of the stage, the crash of an airplane through the roof of a house, so that the crippled airship lands in a garden.

However, it is only an incident, as the comedy angle dominates, with Leo Carrillo and Lupe Velez, both doing things to the king's English that causes customers to laugh at the right time. In fact, it is so preponderantly humorous that one wonders why the characters appear downcast and serious when the flier who had been wrecked is placed against a wall in front of a firing squad.

The scene is Mexico, with Carrillo characterizing a local Poo-Bah, who is mayor, judge, jailer and general boss of things in town. One of his favorite ways of settling troubles between neighbors is to order one of them shot. A good-natured, swaggering caballero, who doesn't think very deeply—and so is funny.

Lupe, as usual, is a feminine firebrand, whose tempers are as funny as her love-making, when she accepts the wrecked flier as the fulfillment of the promise of fortune-telling cards that the "king of hearts" is mixed up in her life. For once the cards are right. Melvyn Douglas plays the role of the aviator very well

CUT AND LINE PARAMOUNT IN NEW EVENING FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 5.—Despite the insistence of the mode to put us into frocks of the informal type for evening, now and again there emerges a frock that is replete with glamor. And then we all feel the need of a real evening frock or an ensemble and make up our minds to wear one when the occasion presents itself. Knowing this, many designers, without much fan fare, have introduced some particularly entrancing evening fashions in their newest collections, clothes that will completely eclipse the most entrancing dinner frock that may be present. Cut and line is very important in the new evening frocks, with seams and empiecements used both as a decorative treatment and to define the silhouette. Lots of satin is being shown here, for the satin evening frock, when well done, has an air of distinction and can be really regal. The satin ensemble presents several good points and is extremely distinguished.

ALTHOUGH MAGGY ROUFF showed many informal evening fashions in her latest collection, none of them attracted as much attention or favorable comment as the really beautiful evening ensembles sketched here. Pale tobacco colored satin is combined with satin in a lovely, glowing shade of ivory satin. The dress is of ivory satin, while the deeper tone is used for facing on the frills of the frock and for the fitted jacket. All edges of the jacket are bordered with zibeline fur and makes the lining. The dress has a softly draped bodice outlining the bust and fitted just underneath. It has a diagonal closing edged with a circular cut frill which tapers off at the waistline. From this point starts another and deeper circular frill which passes down the hip in a diagonal line, edging a sloping seam. Similar frills are looped across the upper arm.

CAPITAL OPENS GREAT CHURCH

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Before a distinguished group of national and international leaders, high services in the partially completed Washington Episcopal Cathedral today opened formally its great choir and sanctuary.

President Hoover had planned to attend, but a press of governmental business prevented, so Mrs. Hoover went in his stead. The widows of two former President, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. William Howard Taft, were among the invited, along with cabinet members, Supreme Court justices, Senators and diplomats.

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, in his sermon of the day linked a reaffirmation of the "imperatives of religion" with a recovery from the current economic unsettlement. He asserted that "strong religious faith, expressed in terms of worship and consistent living, has been associated with great revivals of national zeal and the recovery of national unity."

$200,000 Pier Fire Checked in 8 Hours

GULFPORT, Miss., May 5.—(AP.)—Firemen ended an 8-hour fight last night with flames that swept the Gulfport West Steamship Pier, one of the port's three important wharves, entailing a loss unofficially estimated at $200,000 to $350,000. Belief was expressed by fire department heads that the fire was of incendiary origin.

PIRATES, PHILS KEPT IDLE

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Schedule Misleading. Ferrell Heads for Goal.
Cards Prove Easiest. Pitcher's Labor Lost.
Tradition Against Howley Sande Seeking Fourth.

ROVERS LOSE 9 IN 11 TO REDS, CUBS

BEFORE THE SEASON opened, it looked as if the toughest thing in the early schedule for the Pirates was the fact that they would have to meet the world champion Cardinals in eight of their first 11 games. That shows again how little anyone can tell about baseball. Instead of proving the hardest spot in the Buccaneer slate, the games with the Redbirds were the softest. The Rovers won five of their eight tilts with the world champs, only to be slaughtered by the Reds and Cubs.

Chuck Klein

The Reds grabbed four out of five from the locals, and yesterday's defeat in the closing number with the Cubs, when Larry French suffered his sixth reverse of the spring and his fourth in succession, marked the fifth time in six meetings that the Bruins had knocked off the Gibson troupe. After the loss of nine out of 11 games to the Reds and Cubs, the shift to eastern opposition is a welcome change in the program. The Pirates appeared to be due for a brace with the coming of Chuck Klein & Co. to introduce the clubs from the seaboard. Certainly they can't do worse than they did in losing 12 out of 19 to the West.

THE MOST INTERESTING feature of John McGraw's revised size-up of the National League pennant race is that, while still insisting that his own club will be one of those to fight it out, he has relegated the Dodgers to the second division, dropped the Cardinals to fourth place and picked Cincinnati as the team the Giants must beat to win the flag.

Though admitting the Reds to be greatly improved, the majority of other baseball men do not concur in McGraw's estimate that the Howley gang has a pennant chance. They still hold to the opinion that the Ohioans do not have the pitching strength to carry them through, and that in spite of their punch they will land in the second flight.

IN CONNECTION WITH predictions that Cincinnati will figure in the flag fighting, the dopesters are finding in looking back over the records that if tradition holds true the Reds won't have a chance to finish on top.

No major league club ever climbed from last place to first in a single year. The old Baltimore Orioles rose from the eighth hole in 1893 to the pennant heights in 1894, but at that time the National League was a 12-club circuit.

THE CLOSEST APPROACH to making the big jump from the cellar to the roof in a single season was the feat of the Yankees in grabbing the 1926 flag after finishing seventh in 1925. The Tigers went from sixth place in 1906 to the American League championship in 1907, and the Phillies made a similar jump in the National from 1914 to 1915. The Braves finished fifth the year before their great triumph in 1914. The Giants, though falling short of winning the pennant, made a notable climb from last place in 1902 to second place in 1903. The Pirates' biggest one-year jumps were from sixth position in 1892 to second in 1893, and from eighth in 1917 to fourth in 1918.

Wes Ferrell

THE AMBITION OF Wes Ferrell, Cleveland pitching ace, to win 30 games in a season, or at least to lead the slabmen of the American League in victories, may be realized this year. At any rate, he is off to the best start of his major league career, whereas his chief rivals, Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw, have fallen below their former marks.

In his first season, 1929, Ferrell began with three straight victories, but lost his fourth game. In 1930 and 1931 he lost his second engagement. This spring he hopped off with five consecutive wins and has yet to be defeated, an encouraging start toward beating his own best record for victories in a year, which is 25, set in 1930.

THOUGH HE WON more than 20 games in each of his first three seasons, Ferrell did not lead his league in any year. His 21 wins in 1929 were topped by Earnshaw with 24. Wes won 28 in 1930 and 22 in 1931, but Grove headed the loop in both campaigns with 28 and 31, respectively.

Ferrell's record for a little more than three seasons is 73 games won against only 37 lost, a percentage of .663, so that if he is successful in his next time out he will have won two out of every three games pitched since he broke into the big tent.

AT THAT THE record of games won and lost does not always show the ability of a hurler. Many a good pitcher has looked poor in the tables just because he had a weak club behind him. Take Danny MacFayden, of the Red Sox, for instance. His record for 1932 to date is the poorest in the majors, as he has lost five games and won none. Yet few men have pitched better ball. On opening day he shut out the Senators for nine innings, but lost in the tenth, 1 to 0. In his five games he has allowed just 17 runs, but the tallies scored behind him by his mates have totaled only five.

THOUGH THERE WILL be only two horses representing the Whitney family in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, both owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, they are considered serious contenders and will be ridden by a pair of the most famous jockeys on the turf. Earl Sande will have the mount on Over Time, and Buddy Ensor will have the leg up on Stepenfetchit.

Sande is ambitious to establish a record by being the first jockey ever to win the Derby four times. Besides Sande, only Isaac Murphy ever put over three wins. Earl had received an offer to pilot Brandon Mint in the Derby, but turned it down for a chance to ride Over Time. Ensor, recently reinstated after a suspension of eight years, never has ridden a Derby winner, but has figured in many big races.

THE ACTION OF the Organizing Committee of the Olympic Games in selecting Yale, Harvard and Princeton players to meet the combined seniors of Southern California, California and Stanford in a demonstration football game has been referred to several times as a slight to the Middle West, but Jess Harper, Notre Dame athletic director, can't see it that way.

Mike Koma

Harper says that the Middle West isn't even mildly interested in the playing of a demonstration game in the summer heat, and that he hasn't heard any one in that section utter a word of protest. As to the game, Harper feels sure the coast seniors will have a better line than their Eastern rivals, and the line is what counts in any football contest.

MIKE KOMA, of Struthers, O., is out to make his third letter this year at Grove City College. Mike is one of the regulars of the tennis team at the school. While never considered a regular in basketball or football he has earned letters in these sports for the last two seasons. Last fall, his work as a sub backfield man on the gridiron was exceptional. When basketball started, Koma appeared certain to sit on the bench, but when Center Bill Hamilton was declared ineligible, Mike drew the guard posts vacated when Laycock was sent to the pivot job. Koma is a junior and is president of his class.

RAIN FORECAST FOR CLASSIC SATURDAY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(INS.)—Universe will be unable to start in the Kentucky Derby because of an injury to his left leg, Trainer J. Bauer announced today.

The horse suffered a wrenched coffin joint and a cracked heel in a workout yesterday. Today his foot is in an ice pack. The injury will not heal in time to race the horse Saturday, Bauer announced after consultation with veterinarians and Dr. T. M. Cassidy, owner, who rushed here from Lexington.

Probable showers on Saturday, Derby day, were predicted in a special forecast by the local weather bureau today. The weather was fair today with mild temperature.

PANKA STOPS TINY POWELL

YOUNGSTOWN, May 5.—(AP.)—George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, knocked out Tiny Powell, of Akron, last night in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. A right smash under the heart dropped the Akron fighter for the count.

WALLACE BEATS PERLICK

CLEVELAND, May 5.—(AP.)—Billy Wallace, title aspiring Cleveland lightweight, hammered durable Herman Perlick into submission last night and took the decision at the end of 10 rounds.

In another 10-rounder, King Tut, Milwaukee welter, knocked out Freddie Edwards, of East Liverpool, O., in the first round after twice knocking him to the floor. The referee stopped the fight when Edwards was still on one knee at the count of 10.

ANZAC TENNIS STAR LOSES

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(INS.)—Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles city tennis champion, today held a surprise 6-1, 6-2 victory over Jack Crawford, Australian singles, doubles and mixed doubles champion, in an exhibition match.

Harry Hopman, of Australia, split with Jack Tidball, varsity player, 6-4, 8-7, before rain halted their match.

The Australian players, including Mrs. Crawford; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clemenger and Cliff Sproule, left last night for Havana to play in North American Davis cup zone matches. They will participate in exhibition matches Sunday at New Orleans.

A number of well-known men will attend, and a good speaking program has been arranged.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MATRIMONIAL WAISTLINE—The Papuan "mary" (wife) is a valuable commodity for the reason that she is the breadwinner of the family and labors to raise its food. Obesity in a man lessens his matrimonial chances by raising the purchase price of a wife to an extravagant figure. A slim waist, indicating frugality on the part of the youth, is one of the prime requisites of a successful suitor. The young man I drew at Port Moresby, New Guinea, had bound his waist a few years previously and has succeeded in reducing his waistline to about 50 per cent below normal. The permanent bandage has considerably improved his chances for a bride. THE BOWER BIRD—The species is very remarkable for the curious bowers or playgrounds it constructs in the neighborhood of the nest. A platform is raised in the clearing of an undergrowth with the aid of twigs and branches. The platform is ornamented with bleached bone, bright shells, moss, berries, feathers and any shining object within the reach of the builders. In the center of the platform the bird raises two bowerlike walls. Under the bowers the sexes disport themselves, flirting and paying court day after day. THE WIDOW'S CRAWL—The lot of the widow in New Guinea is a very sorry one, indeed. For a week following the burial, she is obliged to spend the night outside of her house on the temporary grave of her departed husband. As soon as the body is placed within its permanent tomb the widow must crawl to it every daybreak in the wake of a spear, which an obliging friend drags on the ground before her. She must also refrain from eating pork during the first twelvemonth of her widowhood. When these customs were called to my attention, I tried to elicit some explanation of their meaning from the old natives. All I succeeded in obtaining was a cryptic "him belong long fashion" (that is an old custom) in the quaint pidgin English of the country.

"Believe It or Not"—If you can write 'em for Ripley you can win your choice of a Curtis-Wright Monoplane, a Rockne Six deluxe sedan, trips to Quebec or Cuba or your choice of other grand prizes. See announcement of the "Believe It or Not" contest on another page of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

TOMORROW: THE OFFICIAL SICKNESS CATCHER.

JOHNNY RISKE, CROVATTA WIN

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—The forty-fifth annual Amateur Athletic Union boxing championships turned into a two-ring circus today as officials struggled to weed out the remainder of the 150 youngsters seeking national titles and places in the Olympic tryouts in San Francisco.

The first night of the meet cleared but 31 of the ambitious crew out from under the feet of wild-eyed officials and took until 2 a. m.

USE TWO RINGS

This morning the officials set up two rings in Madison Square Garden for the purpose of heaving fighters into both as fast as possible all day and all night, starting at noon.

With only six knockouts developing from all the miscellaneous warring last night, three of them in the middleweight class alone, the faithful looked today to the heavyweights for excitement.

The lone defending champion, Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, injected a negative stimulus to the action last night by nearly losing his bout and title in a close bout with Nate Crystal. Flynn scored two knockdowns in the second round, but was erratic the remainder of the time.

LOCAL STARS WIN

Four Pittsburgh district boxers got into action last night, and two of them were returned victors. In the 147-pound class, Charley Crovatta, of Uniontown, National Junior A. A. U. champ, defeated Dan Mellilo in three rounds. Johnny Riske, of Pittsburgh, a 160-pounder, punched out a victory over Mike Lombardi, of Newark, in three rounds.

George Makarum, another Uniontown entry, was beaten in the heavyweight class by James Dee, of Houston, Tex., and Chuck Mullins, of Pittsburgh, light-heavyweight, bowed to Walter Cleer, of Fortress Monroe, Va.

TECH NETTERS ROUT DUKES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Meanwhile, the Tech Plebes downed the Red and Blue Frosh delegation, 6-1, in contest on the Bluff.

Today's district college card calls for appearance of Bethany at Wash-Jeff and for jaunt of Waynesburg to Geneva. Duke Frosh encounter Mt. Lebanon High School in tussle on the Bluff. Yesterday's summaries:

NEALE NOT TO BE PILOT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 5.—(AP.)—Earle (Greasy) Neale, West Virginia University football coach and former major league baseball player, said today he has received no offer to manage the Youngstown (O.) Central League baseball club, as reported in a news dispatch from Dayton, O. Neale added that his position at the university makes acceptance of such an offer impossible.

RAIN PREVENTS OPENING GAME OF SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The opening battle of the three-game series scheduled between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies at Forbes Field this afternoon was called off because of rain and wet grounds.

In making the announcement, Pirate officials arranged to play off the postponed game as part of a doubleheader on Tuesday, July 19, when the Phillies will be making their second invasion of the West.

CUBS WIN, 4-1

The hue and cry raised over the poor pitching offered by the Pirates did not hold yesterday, but the Bucs were beaten anyhow. Larry French held the Cubs to five hits in eight innings only to lose his sixth straight game. Larry bowed to Lonnie Warneke, one of the young pitchers in baseball. The score was 4 to 1.

Leon Chagnon made his debut in the ninth inning. Leon made a couple of pitches a pit too good, Jurges' triple with two out giving the Bears two safety runs. Warneke yielded only six hits.

HACK STEALS HOME

The invaders scored a run on two hits in the second inning and put over another on Hack's peculiar steal of home in the third. Hack was on third and Herman on first with two out when Moore walked. Brenzel threw the fourth ball to second and Hack, head up, dashed for the plate.

Piet's double in the fourth led to the only Pirate run. Tony romped across the plate on Suhr's "what-used-to-be" a sacrifice fly. It still should be one, according to a lot of baseball people, in view of the fact that the batter is penalized with a time at bat for driving in what often is a highly important run.

Bunts

"He's the best young pitcher in the league," was Lonnie Warneke's compliment to Lonnie Warneke after the game.

Catcher Leo Dixon says he is ready to do his stuff on a minute's notice. The new receiver was with the Cardinal entourage in the spring training period.

Harner's pinch streak was broken by Warneke. Dave had a single and a homer. He seemed to hit a curve ball unintentionally as he flied out.

MID-ATLANTIC OPENS TODAY

Associated Press.

Amid scenes that will recall the days when bewhiskered ball players traveled to the parks in horse-drawn buses, the Middle Atlantic Baseball League opens its campaign.

All the frills of the "good old days" will be resurrected as the league, pared from 12 to six clubs, gets under way.

The champion Cumberland Colts will be opposed by Johnstown this afternoon. Huntington plays at Charleston, and Beckley at Clarksburg in night games.

Leo Mackey, who piloted the Colts to the flag last summer, is in charge again this year. He has rounded up another fast, hard-hitting team with a hurling staff that looks as good as that of last season.

Frank Walker is pleased with the outlook at Clarksburg, and Dan Boone expects big things of his Charleston Senators. Frank Welch, one time outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, says his Beckley team will be in the running from the start.

The league was cut to six teams after six others failed to see their way clear after financial difficulties of last summer.

John Miljus Sold To Memphis Club

SEATTLE, May 5.—(AP.)—John Miljus, former big league pitcher, has been sold to Memphis, of the Southern Association, President Bill Klepper, of the Seattle Indians, of the Pacific Coast League, has announced.

Miljus came to Seattle from the San Francisco Seals two years ago, and last year was sold to Hollywood. The sale to the Stars was not completed, and when Miljus was released last week Klepper arranged his sale to Memphis.

Track Ace Quits West Virginia U.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 5.—(AP.)—Russell D. (Runt) Calloway, West Virginia University track captain and star hurdler, today announced definitely that his collegiate career is at an end.

Calloway plans to leave tonight for his home in Huntington, where he will recuperate from injuries received when robbers assaulted him in Philadelphia while he was there for the Penn Relays last Friday night.

BRAVES FACE BIG TEST ON WESTERN TRIP

CARDS BLANK REDS AGAIN; TRIBE WINS

Associated Press.

Having won their spurs in the East, Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves invaded the western strongholds of the National League today for a whirlwind two-week campaign that will prove pretty definitely whether they can "take it."

In that time the current leaders will meet all four western members, including their closest rivals, the Chicago Cubs, and the champion St. Louis Cardinals. If the Braves hold their own somebody will have to take them very seriously.

MEET REDS TODAY

They open their fight for vindication today against the Cincinnati Reds, while the Phillies engage Pittsburgh, the Glans move into St. Louis and the Brooklyn Dodgers hope for the best at Chicago.

In their parting shot at sectional neighbors yesterday, the Braves flattened the Phillies, 3 to 0. Hugh Betts, the veteran "rookie," turned in his third consecutive victory.

The Cardinals shoved up into the first division with their second straight shutout over Cincinnati, 7 to 0. Flint Rhem became the fourth Card hurler to pitch brilliant ball in as many days when he limited the Reds to six hits, three of them by George Grantham.

Cleveland's Indians, leading the American League's western delegation on their first visit to the seaboard, strengthened their hold on second place by beating the Browns, 8 to 3.

STONE'S HOMER WINS

John Stone's home run in the seventh inning with two aboard enabled the Detroit Tigers to come from behind and take their final from the White Sox, 8 to 7.

The four eastern clubs were unscheduled, but the Yanks sharpened up their batting eyes in a 5-to-3 exhibition victory over Bridgeport of the Eastern League.

Kiski Track Team Tops Tech Plebes

SEALS SHOW VERSATILITY

Giving their most elaborate program as part of the tenth anniversary celebration of Station WCAE, the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last night showed their versatility. In a program extended to 25 minutes, they gave the fans everything from the proverbial soup to nuts.

Ray Fabiani, promoter of the wrestling show at Motor Square Garden last night, and former violinist for the Chicago Opera Company, delighted listeners with the classic "Meditation From Thais," played on his valuable Guadagnini instrument. Frank Speers, one of his main bout wrestlers, offered to throw anybody in the studio in lieu of making a speech and proved he was a real grappler by grunting.

Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky, of the Pirates, put on a saxophone and guitar duet, preceded by a witty speech by Waner; Gabby Hartnett and Charley Grimm, of the Chicago Cubs, wisecracked; Tom Birks, of the sports staff, sang the "Bells of St. Mary's;" Charles J. Doyle, baseball scribe, tap-danced the "Sidewalks of New York;" William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates, played the piano accompaniment for Birks, and Miss Marian Salmon for Fabiani and Doyle; Julius Levin gave a dissertation on how he trains the Seals to bark on the weekly programs, and D. E. Benjamin, sports photographer, revealed some of the tricks of his trade.

Bill Sutherland, of WCAE, was the announcer and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, acted as master of ceremonies of the spicy program.

BUTLER TO BID FOR TROPHY

By JESS CARVER

Butler High School has served official and serious notice that it intends to make a strong bid for the team trophy in the twenty-fifth annual University of Pittsburgh interscholastic track and field championships, listed for competition in the Pitt Stadium Saturday.

The Butler squad, in a dual meet yesterday with Grove City, uncovered a pair of crack performers in Sawhook and Ballentine, who smashed to bits three existing Butler records. Sawhook cracked two of 'em by himself, heaving the shot 42 feet 11 inches and the discus 113 feet. Both efforts, if repeated or bettered Saturday, will score points in the Pitt carnival. Ballentine, a hurdler, ran the 75-yard high hurdles in 09.9.

MURPHY TO COMPETE

With the veteran and highly accomplished Murphy, holder of the Pitt meet javelin record, on deck Butler figures to rate with the strongest in the dueling for the title cup.

The entry list today totals 72, which comes pretty close to a record. Interest in the feature 100-yard dash, for which a special trophy will be awarded, continues to grow. Three sprinters, two from the northern part of the state and a third from Ohio, are rated as favorites in the century, along with Redd, Uniontown veteran. The three are Hines, of Warren; Stafford, of Erie East, and Croft, of Sharon.

Jakes, crack Midland Negro flyer, although not to be counted out in the 100, is conceded a better chance in the furlong, where he'll find chief opposition coming from Arneman, of Erie Strong-Vincent; Hetzel, of Akron South, and Croft.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, May 5.—I don't like to brag out of turn, but our Washington club has muscled in on this pennant race and it will take sawed-off shotguns to rub us out. We got rhythm, pitching, hitting and fielding. Yep, Griff has got this year's winning lottery ticket.

In addition, our team has enough balance to go over Niagara Falls on a tight rope. I know this dispatch sounds like a 1929 market letter, but, still, you're entitled to the facts.

I am telling you, this outfit of ours in Washington isn't afraid of anybody, not even Congressman LaGuardia. They will have to put that pennant in escrow to keep us from snatching it.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Promoters Ray Fabiani and Charley Reinecke were looking ahead today to bringing a big name or two here for their next wrestling show, the last of the indoor season, at Motor Square Garden, following the unexpectedly slim attendance that greeted last night's windup, between Frank Speers, of Atlanta, and Gino Garibaldi, St. Louis Italian. The slump in attendance was especially noticable in view of the large gathering attracted by the appearance of Champion Jim Londos in the same ring a few weeks ago.

Frank Speers, of Atlanta, former Georgia Tech football player, who has appeared in every show here this season, probably was erased from the picture, at least temporarily, when he lost to Gino Garibaldi after 29 minutes 13 seconds in the main bout. A half-Nelson and crotch hold ended the battle following a series of body slams. It was a rough, tough affair all the way, with both men going out of the ring and having to be subdued by the police at one stage.

MAXOS THROWS ROMANO

John Maxos, of St. Louis, threw Mike Romano, of New York, with a body hold after 18 minutes 38 second in the semi-final, also a grueling affair.

In the other bouts, Steve Znoski, of Boston, won the referee's decision over the veteran George Kotsonaros, Los Angeles Greek, when the judges disagreed after 30 minutes of grappling; bald-headed Kola Kwariani, Russian, threw Anton Peterson, Minnesota Swede, with a headlock in 17 minutes 23 seconds, and Charley Allen, of the South Side, subbing for Alex Aberg, who failed to reach Pittsburgh in time, was thrown by Harold Cantonwine, of Iowa, in 7 minutes 6 seconds in the opener.

The promoters felt the warm weather and the fact that Speers has shown here too often were factors in holding down the size of the crowd. They will move outdoors after the next show at the Garden, but have not yet picked their site.

Between Rounds

Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, will promote shows at Steubenville O. this summer. He will erect a bowl to seat 3,000 persons in Stanton Park, and will stage the bouts every Friday night, beginning May 20.

Frenchy Belanger, former ranking flyweight, who lost his form, has returned following a six-month siege in the Canadian woods, and will try a comeback as a bantamweight.

Phil Goldstein and Tommy Crawley, former local featherweight and lightweight rivals, will renew their old feud in an exhibition bout, or rubbering, as an amateur boxing show at the Y. M. H. A. tonight. Goldstein now is coach of the Y boxers. The card:

Tom Tullo vs. Al Gold, Matt Ostrica vs. Matt Gallagher, Gene Perr vs. Jimmy White, Pat Fumero vs. Mike Gondolfo, Ed Kozak vs. Izzy Cohen, Frank Scholz vs. Walt Zack, Walt Mayo vs. Al Quail and Johnny Schuster vs. Tubby Mills.

Joe Mazer has withdrawn from the Moose Temple Boxing Club, and Jules Beck, the promoter, will run the last show tomorrow night at his new club. He is offering two 10-round bouts, with Frankie Baranski and Lou Terry on top and Matty Oldarch and Joey Spiegal in the under feature. Anson Green meets Jimmy Hogan and Howard Scott opposes Eddie Zivic in the preliminaries.

Carlos Herrera, brother of Tony, will box Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, in the second bout on the Tony Herrera-Lew Massey card at Motor Square Garden Monday night. It will be Carlos' second appearance here. Young Rudy and Freddie Fillgrenan are in the eight-round special, and a new opponent is being sought for Ray Winbush in the opener. Danny Dundee being off the card because he is out of training.

Soho McKnights at Pittsburgh Cardinals.

By TOM BIRKS

The Marty Griffin Club withdrew from the West Penn Baseball League today to take over the franchise in the Greater Pittsburgh League, vacated by the Braddock Klabans last night.

Honus Wagner today said he had two teams in mind to replace the Griffins, but would wait action from the managers before the eighth club is named.

The West Penn, scheduled to lift the lid next week, will operate with seven clubs during the first week of the schedule. It appears the Monongahela Valley Umpires' Association will provide men to handle the games in the Greater Pittsburgh and West Penn Leagues.

McKNIGHTS IN ACTION

Soho fans this evening will have an opportunity to see just how Manager Pat Griffin's McKnight outfit will shape up for the forthcoming West Penn League race. The McKnights will get accustomed to Greenlee Field this evening when they meet the Pittsburgh Cardinals.

The McKnights apparently are going to shape up in a big way, Kagle, the former Pleasant Valley star, will play first base, with the veteran George McFarland on second. Moore will be at third and Foster in middle field.

Mike Kadrau is the first string catcher and Brosky, the boy with the fast ball, will hurl the opener.

GRAYS HERE SATURDAY

The task of hurling the Homestead Grays to victory in their first East-West League game, at Forbes Field, on Saturday evening, after the Pirates and Phillies finish their National League contest, will be entrusted to either George Britt or Smoky Joe Williams. Cleveland will provide the opposition for the Grays.

Britt showed by hurling a two-hit game against the North Siders on Tuesday that his salary whip is in splendid condition.

In sandlot tussles staged last evening the Homestead Grays defeated Scottdale, 9-6; Edgewood defeated the Griffins, 4-2; Murs walloped Pitcairn, 13-2, and the Scott Morgans nosed out DeSoto, 2-1.

VILLANOVA NEXT GOLF FOE FOR DUQUESNE

The Villanova College niblick wielders will provide the next opposition for Capt. Francis Totten and his Duquesne University golf team. The Easterners are scheduled to clash with the Dukes at Aleoma Country Club, Saturday, May 14.

The match will be played in the morning, and will mark the third team match for Coach Emil Loeffler's team. The Dukes have already met and lost to Pitt and Kiski, but Coach Loeffler is convinced that the boys are due to break into the win column at the expense of the Easterners.

Violet Trautman won the first women's event at the Pittsburgh Country Club yesterday afternoon. It was a match-play-against-par affair, played under full handicaps. The scores follow: Violet Trautman, 3 down; Mrs. H. A. Need, 4 down; Miss L. Vilsack, 5 down; Mrs. C. E. Lott, 6 down, and Mrs. C. W. Baird, 6 down.

Chartiers Heights officially will open its season on Saturday, with members from St. Clair and the Keystone Athletic Club as guests. A blind bogey will be played, with a dinner following.

Sam Parks, Jr., former captain of the Pitt golf team, now pro at the Summit course at Uniontown, set a new course record there yesterday when he stroked the 18-hole layout in 33-34—67. The old mark was held jointly by Gene Sarazen and Leo Goff at 70.

Swift Says International Earnings About Same As Last Year

President E. F. Swift, of Swift International, says the company has no bank loans nor any other obligations, has cash, government bonds and other marketable securities worth $10,000,000, in addition to net working capital of $15,000,000, making $25,000,000 in free liquid resources, which is equal to $16.66 a share on the stock.

Mr. Swift estimated earnings for the first four months of 1932 equal or exceed earnings for the like 1931 period, and fully cover dividend requirements.

Dividend increases are extremely rare in these days of falling earnings, but the increase announced today by the Homestake Mining Company occasioned no great surprise in Wall street. The company has profited no little by reduced production costs, and its product, gold, has suffered no drop in value, like other commodities.

General Motors slipped through the $10 level, finally yielding to new low ground under pressure of selling which developed in considerable volume. Reduction in the dividend to a $1 annual basis yesterday, following the cut in February to the equivalent of a $2 basis, may have been something of a factor, but that action seemingly had been anticipated and discounted. Motors appeared to be under pressure of special selling and according to close observers the bulk of offerings originated with firms here who usually act for Detroit interests. Liquidation was well absorbed, however, and while the stock made a new low, the scope of the decline was entirely nominal.

As usual the cut in the General Motors' common dividend turned attention to Du Pont because of the latter company's extensive investment in that issue. Holding directly or indirectly a total of 9,981,220 shares of General Motors common, Du Pont logically will feel the effect of the latest dividend cut quite severely. Du Pont directors maintained the $1 quarterly dividend in February despite the General Motors cut at that time, but it is generally expected that directors at their meeting a week from today will move to adjust the present $4 rate.

Interests who keep close tabs on the situation in the acceptance market will not be surprised if an early and sharp advance in yield rates materializes. Recent abrupt marking down of yield rates, which are now at record lows that ruled through last summer, has stifled demands for bills. The rate on 90-day bills, ⅞ of 1 per cent, it is pointed out, is the same as that on bank deposits. The expectation seems to be that 90-day bills will be back to a 2 per cent basis in reasonably short time.

Consummation of the plan whereby Standard Oil Company of Indiana will receive $50,000,000 in cash over a period of four years and stock in the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in exchange for the foreign properties of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Corporation, is likely within the next few days. A new corporation to be known as Pan-American Foreign Corporation, will take over the foreign properties of Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company. Standard of Indiana retains the domestic business of Pan-American. Foreign assets of Pan-American amount to about 65 per cent of its total assets.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Stone & Webster, Inc., and subsidiaries report net operating income for the quarter ended March 31 was $496,566, equal to 24 cents a share on the outstanding common shares. The earnings exclude net profit of securities owned on January 1, 1932, and sold during the quarter, such net profit being carried to surplus account. Because of restatement of assets of the parent company and certain subsidiaries at the end of 1931, no comparison for the March quarter last year is available.

De Forest Radio Company reports for 12 months ended March 31 shows net loss of $138,594 after giving effect to acquisition of Jenkins Television Corporation and after all charges, including amortization of inventory. President Gordon says sales for the first quarter of this year have increased month by month. Unfilled orders now are larger than at any time during the past eight months.

United Carbon Company, including subsidiaries, reports for the quarter ended March 31 profit of $61,667 after depreciation and depletion but before federal taxes, compared with $22,237 in the first quarter of 1931.

American Steel Foundries Company net loss for the March quarter was $350,000 after depreciation, taxes and interest, interest, compared to net profit of $96,295 in the first quarter of 1931.

Westvaco Chlorine Products Company reports for the quarter ended March 31 net income of $198,018, after depreciation, federal taxes and other charges, equal to 24 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $223,439, or 82 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1931.

Martin-Rockwell Corporation reports a net loss of $2,720 for the quarter ended March 31, compared with net profit in the first quarter of 1931 of $110,919, equal to 50 cents a share on the capital stock.

American Rolling Mill Company reports for the March quarter net loss of $611,911 after all charges, compared to net loss of $665,049 in the March quarter of 1931.

COTTON PRICES STEADY, OFF

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 4 to 5 points on scattered and local selling. July sold at 5.68.

Trading continued very quiet after the call and prices held within a range of 3 or 4 points during the first half-hour with the market evidently awaiting developments in Washington or fresh incentives in other directions. A little Southern selling was reported here during the early trading and the weather in the South was considered favorable for farm work and crop progress in most sections, but the early offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering.

Prices sagged another few points later in the morning under light selling supposed to be liquidation for local and New Orleans account. Weakness in wheat and the action of the stock market probably accounted for some of the selling. July eased off to 5.55c and October to 5.80c or about 8 to 10 points net lower and the market was within a point or two of the lowest at midday.

REFINED SUGAR AT 1914 LOW

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—The wholesale price of refined sugar today was lowered to 3.75 cents a pound, which equals the record low price for that commodity established in April, 1914.

This quotation was named by the National Sugar Refining Company following two previous cuts from the recently prevailing price of 3.90 cents.

The weakness in the refined market follows declining prices for raw sugar. In the last few days sugar futures have sold at record low prices of close to one-cent a pound. Prices of futures are quoted exclusive of the import duty.

High Grade Bonds Hold Monopoly of Existing Interest in Investment

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

BONDS OF THE HIGHEST grade are monopolizing the investment market today to a degree seldom, if ever, witnessed before. This is shown by a tabulation of the results of a questionnaire circulated by Lawrence Stern & Co., among investment bankers throughout the country at the end of April.

The answers also disclosed the fact that men in the securities business are uncertain as to the future course of the bond market and that the trend of the public demand shows no definite change in either direction.

Replies to the questionnaire were received from each of the 12 Federal Reserve districts. Without exception the investment dealers reported that the principal demand is for the highest grade of bonds, and many indicate that no other class of bonds is salable under present conditions.

Municipal Bonds Leading Demand

AMONG THE classifications of bonds, according to the replies, municipals lead demand by a wide margin, with high-grade public utilities in second place.

Unprecedented emphasis is placed upon credit rating, according to the study of the replies, which says:

"Both the character of the new offerings during April and our reports from investment institutions throughout the country indicate that public financing is today possible only where the very highest credit rating exists. Not only are security dealers practically unanimous in reporting that the only demand is for the highest grade of bonds, but also an analysis of the April bond offerings shows that they consist almost entirely of municipals and the issues of a few very strong borrowers whose credit is exceptionally high. As long as offerings are confined to this class of securities, they are readily sold, but a market for less attractive credit risks is entirely lacking."

Investment Demand Shows Little Change

Reports as to retail bond business in April fall into three approximately equal divisions. One-third of the dealers reported no change in the volume of distribution; another third reports a decline from the March total, and the remaining third reports some improvement.

The probable future trend of the bond market, according to the majority of dealers, is uncertain. However, a considerable proportion believe that bond prices will be higher in May.

Opinion as to the future course of the stock market is also uncertain, but a majority expect continued declines.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 5.—Active trading in the Swift issues featured a dull Curb Market today. Stocks of both these companies were heavy and were joined in their reaction by a number of other specialties which recently have been soft.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Stocks Recover — Quiet Trading Here

STOCK PRICES REGAIN EARLY LOSSES

Telephone, Tobacco, Auburn Among Issues to Recover; Motors Sags to New Low

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—Financial markets steadied somewhat today, as Wall Street was buzzing with vague rumors of constructive developments impending in Washington.

Stocks slumped rather sharply in the first hour, only to recover thereafter. By early afternoon, extreme losses of 1 to 3 points were largely recovered. Bonds were still under pressure here and there, but United States governments came back strongly after yesterday's setback. There was still considerable pressure on the dollar in the foreign exchange markets, but it showed some further signs of lifting.

The stock market met support at approximately the low levels of the previous session. After sagging about 1 to 3 points in the first hour, the following stocks recovered from large fractions to 2 points:—American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Allied Chemical, Coca Cola, Auburn, Woolworth, Eastman, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. General Motors sagged ½ point to a new low at 9⅞, on reduction of the quarterly dividend to 25 from 50 cents. United States Steel sagged a point, then recovered partially. International Shoe in which a short squeeze seemed to be developing yesterday sagged more than a point. Oils were steady.

Rumors regarding constructive developments afoot in Washington were highly nebulous and largely concerned with efforts to solve the problems of taxation, economy and budget balancing.

While a reduction in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate of 3 per cent has been expected in recent weeks, in connection with the reserve system's credit expansion program through purchases of government securities, the active outflow of monetary gold which started this week with the House passage of the Goldsborough bill made the outlook more uncertain.

The market will be free from important dividend uncertainties for some days now, although the American Telephone dividend action later in the month is being awaited with much interest.

Edward G. Seubert, president, said:

Forbes

Will Morgan Make Heroic Rescue Move?

By B. C. FORBES

"J. P. MORGAN dines with President," the newspapers report.

This may or may not turn out to be far-reachingly important. The redoutable father of the present head of the House of Morgan oftener than once went to the rescue of Presidents of the United States at critical momoments in the nation's history.

Mr. Forbes

The original J. P. never towered so much above all other American bankers as when some supreme emergency arose. It was then that he assumed the role of commander-in-chief of American finance. He summoned other bankers laid before them the facts, then gave them peremptory orders. And none thought of disobeying!

What opportunity exists today for heroic leadership of that Titanic mold! What need for a J. P. Morgan to grasp the helm! What scope for Napoleonic action!

Unfortunately, the present J. P. Morgan never has aspired to follow in his father's footsteps as the active commander-in-chief of America's financial army. "Jack" Morgan's ambitions do not lie in that direction.

Whereas the original J. P. gloried in achieving financial feats of unprecedented magnitude and derived a thrill from becoming financial dictator in times of crises, the son finds more joy in living a less strenuous life. He loves to spend half of each year abroad, especially in England, indulging in cultured leisure.

He keeps in touch with the activities of the Morgan houses in New York, Philadelphia, London and Paris, but he is content to leave the brunt of the work to his numerous partners. Thomas W. Lamont usually shoulders chief responsibility. He is now in Europe.

I asked him, when he told me he planned to sail:

"Doesn't it take courage to go away at a time like this?"

He replied that he didn't see that there was much that could be done by staying on here.

No class in America has so completely lost public favor as our big bankers.

If America ever needed a financial savior it needs one at this moment.

A. P. GIANNINI, the husky California banker, who acquired more branch banks than any other banker in America, who later bestrode the continent as controller of big banks, who created a unique billion dollar bank investment trust, who retired (two years ago) at 60, and who recently regained control of his Transamerica after a historic joust with Wall street interests, tells me—he is now visiting New York—that the deposists of his Bank of America in California have recently increased $25,000,000.

Mr. Giannini has been the moving spirit in a "back to good times" movement in the Golden State. By means of advertising and radio, a most agressive campaign has been conducted. Mr. Giannini states that the results have been beneficial not only to California banking institutions, but to the whole state.

He doesn't propose to stay long in New York. Like most visitors, he prefers the back-home atmosphere to the pessimistic atmosphere now enveloping the nation's chief financial center.

WASHINGTON ONCE again is being blamed for the latest spasm of nervousness in Wall Street. This column is being beseeched by telegram and letter to urge citizens in every state to wire or write senators and representatives demanding passage of the manufacturers' sales tax, prompt agreement on other sensible levies, drastic governmental economies and the adjournment of Congress at the earliest possible moment.

Do jackass legislators realize that by persisting in playing petty, partisan, selfish politics, they are playing with fire, with fire which may get out of bounds?

TIMES TESTING ECONOMIC OPINIONS

Many in High Places Too Dogmatic in Their Views; Veto Creative Proposals

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Events are rapidly testing our notions as to what constitutes sound economics.

Many well-meaning men in high places are too dogmatic in their standards. Some of those who in October and November, 1929, rushed into print to assure the public that conditions were "basically sound" now are quick to pin the label "unsound" on creative proposals to apply the principles of scientific management to modern business problems. The ultimate test of all business institutions is their social utility.

Mr. Rukeyser

In chatting with me along these lines, Sir Josiah Stamp, a director of the Bank of England, recently remarked that society was today more imperiled by well meaning reactionaries than by irresponsible Reds. He said economics should be looked upon as a scientific mode of thought, rather than as an answer to all our questions.

WOULD CHANGE VIEWS

He added that many executives were vainly seeking to apply literally to current problems the doctrines of John Stuart Mill and Adam Smith, which they had learned in college decades ago. The classical economists, of course, were seeking to analyze conditions as they saw them, and would doubtless be among the first to revise their conclusions in accordance with changing conditions in the outside world.

In the spirit of derision, an executive of the Federal Reserve System recently remarked:

"This is a great day for the nuts."

There was considerable basis for his jibe. As in all periods of great depression, there is overproduction of proposed remedies, quack and otherwise. Fortunately, however, first rate business executives are beginning to live up to their opportunities and are seeking to separate sound proposals from unsound ideas.

OPPOSES CLOSED MINDS

Regular readers of this column will recall that I have frequently characterized individual measures, such as the Hoover moratorium, as mere strychnine and have criticized inadequate attempts to stage a "managed recovery." Yet I am out of sympathy with advocates of economic fundamentalism who have closed their minds to all remedial proposals.

One spokesman for the hard-boiled school of economics, who belittles "artificial stimulants," makes this statement of faith:

"In my opinion, there is only one way out. That is through drastic economie in production and distribution, through scaling down and extending debts, and through readjustment in prices which are still out of line with the general level."

HARSH DOCTRINE

That is harsh doctrine. It would seem to imply a return to the lower standard of living prevailing in the 1909-1914 period, and a wholesale repudiation of public and private indebtedness created on the basis of a higher price level and a higher standard of living. It skips directly over the anomaly of rising costs resulting from a falling volume of business.

Conversely, it overlooks the economies inherent in mass production, under which the overhead stays down as volume of production increases. It closes its eyes to the transfer of wealth resulting from monetary instability. It seems to stress the false doctrine that man exists for business, rather than the true doctrine that business exists for the service of man.

In social terms, it offers scant hope to the millions of unemployed who are in effect told to wait and hunger while new policies, in the formulation of which they had no part, are ironed out.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

Everett Tells Investigators That Miss Carewe Was A Blackmailer

CHAPTER XXV.

"I realized after I left that you would find me out. Then I saw how you might misinterpret that lie. The only reason I didn't tell you straight off was that I didn't want to get mixed up in any stew. It was none of my affair and I wanted to keep out of it. I have had trouble with Lola Carewe over money. You might as well know now the kind of woman Lola was. She blackmailed! She did it to me—and to God knows who else!"

"Blackmailed?" exclaimed Dougherty with an astounded roll of his blue eyes. "Lola Carewe—a blackmailer?"

"She was!" avouched Everett with a solemn glance at the District Attorney. "May I speak to you gentlemen in confidence?"

"If it is not vital to the case," stipulated Thatcher Colt.

"I am sure you will not betray me!" cried the actor passionately. "There is a secret I tried to keep. My grandmother was a Negress from Trinidad. Lola knew that. She knew that I could not play romantic roles in the American theater and Hollywood if that fact were published. So she blackmailed me. She and a broker who was in on her schemes. She collected the money on the pretense of investing it. She felt it was safer than just taking the money somebody might squeal. It is a game that is practiced all over New York today—it explains to many wives why their husbands insist on stock market gambling and continued losses—a new blackmail alibi. With me, Lola was relentless. She would take my last cent. I gave her funds I held from my father in trust for my mother. In desperation, I pretended to be in love with her. Yes—I was willing to act that part in order to marry her, and hope to get free of this unceasing tribute. I suppose I was crazy—but I thought I could touch her heart and win peace by shamming love. It was no go! She told me her love was dead; she loved only money and pleasure now. Why, Mr. Colt, I even paid money to Prince James to tip me off as to what happened in that apartment—I wanted to get something on Lola if I could, so that I could even counter-blackmail her, if possible, and thus work myself free. I believed that Christine Quires did not like my profession and worked against me. I still wanted to marry Lola and I took a long chance and asked Christine out last night in the hope of getting her on my side. Because I pleaded so hard, she turned down several other men for me. But, Mr. Colt, when Christine talked to me last night, I learned that she was living in terror of her life!"

SOUGHT HIS ADVICE

Wildly Guy Everett looked from Colt to Dougherty and then back to the Police Commissioner.

"In terror of her life," he repeated. "She told me that she had made a terrible discovery involving Lola Carewe. She also said that Dr. Baldwin was deeply mixed up in it. She said she didn't know what to do. She had found out a plot to take Lola's life—and because she had found it out, she felt that her own life was in danger. At one moment she was tempted to go to the police and tell them what she knew. But then she would think better of it. She wanted my advice—"

"Who was it that she found out meant to kill Lola?" cut in Colt anxiously.

"Ah, she wouldn't tell me that," groaned Guy Everett, gracefully flecking his silken handkerchief against his brow. "I begged, I entreated, I cajoled, I pleaded, I harassed the poor girl, until she claimed she felt ill and made me bring her home. I offered to take her to a hotel. No, she wouldn't hear to it. She finally said the best thing to do was to go back to the apartment and have the whole thing out. But she wouldn't give in one inch and tell me anything about the matter that had worried her so. And that was all!"

"Did you ever threaten Lola?" asked Dougherty, recalling the story we had heard in the penthouse.

"Yes. We had several violent scenes. But I meant her no real harm!"

ASKED MANY QUESTIONS

"She gave you not even a hint?" asked Colt in a low tone.

"I have told you all that I know. And I ask your pardon for having lied in the first place. I don't know what it all means, but perhaps what I have told you will help you!"

Colt gave the exhausted thespian a drink. For more than half an hour the Commissioner and the District Attorney pried at Everett with questions, but they learned nothing more than he had already told them. He gave his promise that he would remain at the Axton Club for the rest of the day, subject to call. With his face warmed with his whisky and soda, and a light of relief in his eye, Guy Everett bowed himself through the door. As soon as he was gone, I telephoned to headquarters, assigning a man to the North Star speakeasy, to confirm, if possible, Everett's story that he was there.

"If that isn't substantiation of my theory, I don't know what it is," exulted Dougherty. "Christine had found out something."

"About Lola's life being in danger—not about jewels," said Colt. "And don't forget Christine's unreasoning fear of Chung."

GETS CHEMIST'S REPORT

"This dramatic confession of Everett's doesn't clear him, either," continued Colt. "He made it only after he knew we had punctured his alibi. And he took time to think up a careful story. But it is remarkable that he drags in Dr. Baldwin's name again. I am afraid we shall have to look carefully into Dr. Baldwin and his connections!"

Arthur had poured fresh coffee and we needed it. Now he returned, bearing a sealed police department envelope on a silver tray. Colt seized it instantly, remarking to Dougherty that it was unquestionably the report from the department chemist on Dr. Baldwin's hypodermic solution. It repeated what Multooler had told us.

As for the hypodermic administered by Dr. Baldwin, examination of the subject and of the apparatus employed demonstrates conclusively that no poison was given Lola Carewe or Christine Quires through the hypodermic needle. There was no drug in that needle aside from a moderate and harmless quantity of adrenalin which Dr. Baldwin had mercifully administered."

It was now the full light of morning. We bathed and shaved in Colt's variously tinted bathrooms and then in the commissioner's car we rode downtown. Very little was said on that hasty journey—we had talked and thought the long night through and for this brief interval we rested. On the sidewalk in front of the old Georgian headquarters building—in bright sunshine that had inherited New York from the storm of the night before—we arranged to lunch together at the district attorney's club atop the Chrysler Building, and then Dougherty hastened on to his office.

It was just 8 o'clock on that morning of January 1 when Thatcher Colt and I returned to the commissioner's private office at the north end of the second floor of the building at 240 Center street.

On the chief's desk lay the early tabloids screaming out the tale of the double murders. In a neat pile beside them was stacked a sheaf of reports on various angles of the case, and Colt prepared to plunge directly into them, as Flynn, red-eyed and remorseless, came in, saluted and slouched on a chair beside the Commissioner.

"I can summarize most of that for you, chief!" proposed the inspector amiably, closing one eye.

"Shoot!"

"I've had fifty men working all night long, yanking people out of bed and our information is fairly complete. It doesn't help us much. I had a talk with Lola's lawyer this morning. He says she had no enemies that he knows of."

"A man with a positive genius for misinformation!" commented Colt.

"Right, chief. Anyway, he says she's filthy rich; he has the keys of her safe deposit boxes, but won't give them up without a court order. I left word with the D. A.'s office—"

"Well, chief—you were right about that hair you found at the pent-house."

"It did come from Christine Quires's head?"

"No doubt about that. It's with the property clerk now—"

"Leave it there until I need it. Next?"

"We've looked up the private lives of everybody in the case pretty near. Lowell Courtleigh, the elevator boy, is okay. His reputation's all right and he has a whole apartment house full of witnesses. Courtleigh is eliminated."

"Chung?"

"No; so hot. He got in before the exclusion act. Comes of pretty well-to-do family—all Chink's, of course, but plenty of jack. The consulate in New York say he is a good man, but the legation in Washington say he is too active with some radical Chinese political movements. He is well acquainted with an Italian married woman, wife of an artichoke dealer in East Harlem, and a tattooed lady in a museum on Fourteenth street."

Synopsis

Lola Carewe is mysteriously murdered in her penthouse apartment at 3 o'clock New Year's morning. An hour later, the body of Lola's guest, Christine Quires, is found in Lola's room. Christine had been killed first and her body hidden. Dr. Hugh Baldwin attributes both deaths due to heart failure. Guy Everett, Christine's New Year's Eve escort, claims he brought her home at 12:15 and then went, riding alone, on the Motor Parkway. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, denies seeing Christine return. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt discounts District Attorney Dougherty's theory that Lola was killed by a jewel thief ring she headed and that Christine met the same fate for knowing too much. Vincent Rowland, Lola's lawyer, discloses that Everett loved Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin. The Commissioner telephotoes a picture of a young man, named Basil, found on Lola's dresser, to the Paris Prefect of Police requesting that he identify it and investigate Lola's past. The police are on the trail of Christine's brother, Edward, who left his Rochester home for New York after receiving a telegram New Year's Eve. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Dr. Multooler, the medical examiner, contradicts Dr. Baldwin's statement that heart failure caused the deaths. Everett confesses he lied about riding on the Motor Parkway.

Lillian Openly Shows Resentment at Madge's Tardy Report

Except for a slight stiffening of her whole body there was nothing in Lillian's manner to indicate what effect my story of Charles Owen's activities and our secrecy concerning them had had upon her. But it was fully half a minute after I had finished before she spoke, and a certain rough unevenness of tone told me that rarely had her superb poise been put to a more rigid test.

"Then the situation at present, I gather," she began, slowly, "is that Marion is the complaisant recipient of the attentions of this scoundrel, whose presence in Helena's home and proximity to my child I have loathed, although I had not the slightest idea that Marion meant any more to him than any other child might. How long will it take to get her home?"

"Nearly all day by train," Mr. Underwood replied. "New York connections aren't so good, you know, and even if they had a good car ready and could start right away, the journey would take about six hours."

"But they mustn't start by themselves!" Lillian's tones were shrill.

"Yet who is up there who would be safe to bring them down? Not one person."

"There is Ronald," Mr. Underwood said, and I looked at him in amazement, for I guessed what Lillian's reaction would be to the boy's name.

"Ronald!" she said witheringly. "He or a half dozen like him wouldn't be half as much protection as a good tomcat. There's enough youthful enthusiasm spilling itself up there now without adding any more. What's needed is an older head."

MADGE MAKES SUGGESTION

Taking my courage in both hands, I spoke to Lillian's unresponsive back.

"Why don't you go up yourself, not necessarily to bring them home, but to stay up there and see for yourself what is going on?"

"But I'm needed here," Lillian said dubiously. Then she straightened and spoke with a certain hard decision quite foreign to her.

"I can't let anything matter but Marion," she said. "Madge, there's nothing on your mind now but Phil Veritzen's call to inspect the manuscript, is there?"

She whirled and faced me as she spoke, and I suspected that it had been a distinct effort for her to couch this request in her old, offhand manner.

I made sure that there was no trace of anything in my own manner that would lead her to suspect I had guessed her rancor.

"Not a thing," I said cheerily, "and I'm feeling wonderfully fit. I can take your place as 'errand girl' indefinitely."

"But how are you going to get up there?" Harry Underwood asked worriedly. "Neither Dicky nor I dare leave to take you, and I don't want you driving up there alone."

RESENTMENT THAWS

Lillian looked over at him, with a little wifely, amused smile playing around her lips.

"Since when have the railroad trains stopped running," she asked. "I'll catch the first one out this afternoon, and will get up there tonight. But, I'll have no time to telephone Helena if I get that first train. I'll have to run up and get ready immediately."

She shot a quick look of appeal at me, and I knew that her resentment was thawing by the moment.

"I'll telephone her if you wish," I said. "What shall I tell her?"

"Tell her it's all right for Marion and Mary to stay, and that I suddenly decided I need a change, and am coming up myself for a few days. Say that I didn't have time to telephone, but that I know she will make me royally welcome, and will hang me up on a hatrack if she hasn't any other place to put me. And she will, too. I know Helena of old."

There was a note of affection in her voice at which something unworthy in my heart stirred and stung me. Was it possible, I asked myself, that the dislike which I knew I had for Helena Brixton had its source in jealousy of Lillian's real affection for her, or were my instincts right in telling me that she was not as careful a chaperone of young girls as Lillian and I were?

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Paul Miller, one of the ushers at the Kenyon Theater, where the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club holds its regular weekly meeting, acted as master of ceremonies last Saturday. The following children, all members of the club, entertained: Marian Clarke and Ruth Stahl sang a very pretty duet. Hazel Fretz offered a military tap dance which the youngsters enjoyed very much. Freddy Rose, organist, played several numbers, while Paul Miller sang the choruses.

After the entertainment the members held an election of officers. The children elected will serve for the next four weeks. They are: Ruth Stahl, grand jester; Sara Atwell, William Rinker, Ben Laey, William Painter. William Crawford were elected to the board of governors.

ETNA-HARRIS MINSTREL

Manager Morty Henderson, of the Etna-Harris Chapter of the Junior Komic Club, reports that he is going to have one of the largest minstrel shows ever held at any of the club meetings on Saturday, May 21. Fifty-four children, all members of his club, will participate. Twenty-four children will be in the chorus, eight end men, two interlocutors and 20 special acts, including solos, doubles and trios, consisting of dancing, singing, recitations and a tap number on roller skates by a youngster 9 years old, which promises to be a very unusual number.

Mr. Henderson also reports that for the first time since the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club was organized, little 9-year-old Bob Kurtzrock was absent.

Bob was taken to the hospital last week for an operation on his knee and just before he went into the hospital he called Morty Henderson on the phone and said:

"Gee, Mr. Henderson, I don't mind going to the hospital because the doctors tell me that they'll fix my knee, but I'm going to miss several meetings of the club and the big show your going to have on May 21."

Mr. Henderson told him not to worry about missing the meetings, that just as soon as the doctor tells him he can have visitors, that he and most of the other club members will be over to the hospital to see him.

So Bob, everybody in the club is going to miss you and they all want you to get well and strong real fast so you can again attend the regular meetings.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

ALTHOUGH HE WAS GREATLY DISLIKED BY A MILLIONAIRE REPORTED LOST IN SOUTHERN SEAS, HARTFORD OAKDALE IS MAKING LITTLE EFFORT TO CONTROL THE GRIEF THAT HURRIED HIM INTO WEARING MOURNING
YES COLONEL, I'M SIMPLY CRUSHED BY THIS AFFAIR MONTY AND I DISAGREED BUT AFTER ALL, TO USE A COMMON EXPRESSION, BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER
IN OTHER WORDS, AT A TIME LIKE THIS AN EL DORADO IS ALWAYS AN EL DORADO
WELL HARTFORD BRACE UP! THE WORST IS YET TO COME PROBABLY, WORRYING ABOUT THAT MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE AND SO FORTH.
OH LET'S NOT SPEAK OF THAT COLONEL, I MEAN THE ESTATE WHAT AFTER ALL IS A FEW MILLION DOLLARS ONE WAY OR ANOTHER TO ONE WHO LIKE MYSELF KNOWS THAT REAL WEALTH MEANS FRIENDS, A HEARTY HANDCLASP A SMILE, A . . . .
ON THE OTHER HAND MONEY - A MILLION OR TWO - DOESN'T DO ANY HARM.
POSSIBLY NOT, BUT THE EL DORADO MILLIONS MEAN NOTHING TO ME NOTHING! MY SHARE, HOWEVER LARGE, SHALL GO TO SOME NOBLE CHARITY AND I'D LIKE TO SEE THE FAMILY LAWYERS TRY TO TALK ME OUT OF THAT IDEA TOO, COLONEL.
ALL OF IT TO CHARITY, EH? MILLIONS! WELL HARTFORD EVEN A GOOD IDEA CAN BE CARRIED TOO FAR.

ADVENTURES OF AN AUTOGRAPH HUNTER

Signature of Greta Garbo. Very rare.

By Zukor Herowitz,
World Famous Autograph Wheedler.

AUTOGRAPH hunting has become America's most fascinating sport, as evidenced by the fact that this country will be represented in the 1932 Olympic games by a team of skilled autograph collectors. The autograph hunter is born. My father was a brush man, and my grandfather sold Buckeye paintings to fit any size frame. The autograph hunters will be found loitering around theater lobbies, in boudoirs and in public institutions. Before going into the matter of equipment, which is comprised of pen, pencil, eraser, checkbooks, paper, etc., I want to tell you about the adventure I had getting the autograph of Clark Gable. The details will be revealed in tomorrow's paper. Don't miss it if you can.

Utility Rate Cuts

The Philadelphia Company Occupies an Anomalous Position in Resisting the Tide.

Prices of the necessities of life are coming down on all sides, but the Philadelphia Company continues to demand for the services of its subsidiaries the same high prices that were in effect when prosperity was at its peak. How long will it be able to continue in this anomalous position?

Not all public utilities in Western Pennsylvania have escaped the tide of downward revision in prices. The rates of a number of companies outside of Pittsburgh have been lowered.

Dispatches in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday told of a new contract made by Brockway, in Jefferson County, by which its annual light bill was cut from $2,150 to $1,500, with 13 lights added to the circuit; and of a reduction of $413 in Punxsutawney's light bill, and a reduction of $1,200 in its annual water bill for fire plug service.

President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, has admitted that his Duquesne Light Company's rate for electric service and his Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's rate for a bus ride can be reduced without jeopardy to the companies. He has admitted it by offering to put into effect small reductions, provided the city agreed not to sue for larger cuts.

In justice Phillips should not make his proffered rate cuts conditional on anything. His customers, with lowered incomes, are entitled to them now.

Intolerance Rebuked

The Church People of Baltimore Voted Largely for the Repeal of the Blue Law.

Since Pennsylvania is confronted with the proposal that the Blue Law of 1794 be repealed, it is in order to examine further the results of the referendum held in Baltimore Monday on this same question.

We find that the vote in favor of abolishing the ban on innocent amusements on Sunday was 112,982 to 29,042.

The size of the vote, and the size of the majority for repeal, deprive the Blue Law supporters of any possible alibi. It was a great spontaneous voicing of the people's wishes, not a vote dictated by political bosses or by the moving picture and professional baseball interests.

The churches were apparently the leaders in the fight for the retention of the Blue Law, but the vote proves unmistakably that thousands of church members voted for repeal. There was nothing inconsistent in this. Sunday amusements will not interfere with churchgoing.

People in Baltimore will still attend religious services on Sunday mornings. If they and others choose to go to ball games or the movies in the afternoon, it is their right to go, and no harm will come of it.

The vote was a rebuke to intolerance, and we believe that Pennsylvanians, when the opportunity comes, will administer a similar rebuke.

Swimming Pool Fees

The County Is Justified in Letting People Use the Park Bathing Places at Little Cost.

The Pennsylvania Swimming Pool Association, composed of operators of commercial bathing places, has complained to the County Commissioners that the county is interfering with their business by admitting adults to the county park pools for 10 cents and letting children in for nothing. The commercial men think the county should raise the adult fee to 25 cents and charge children 10 cents.

As a general principle it is no doubt unwise for any branch of the government to engage in competition with private business.

But should the Carnegie Library be closed because it takes business away from the book stores?

Should the parcel post be abolished because it takes business away from the express companies?

Should the municipal water works be abandoned because they take business away from the private water companies?

Should the manufacture of automobile license plates by the penitentiary prisoners be stopped because it takes away business from the metal stamping companies?

We think most people will answer these questions in the negative.

The operation of swimming pools for the benefit of the poor is also a legitimate function of the county government. If the County Commissioners make any change, they should do away with the fees altogether rather than raise them.

The Civil War Veterans

The Few Survivors Deserve a Specially Impressive Tribute of Respect This Year

American Legion Post No. 4, of Sewickley, plans a birthday celebration in honor of Capt. David Shields, Sewickley's only surviving veteran of the Civil War, who will be 88 years old on June 8.

The Legion is honoring itself in honoring Capt. Shields, who was a personal aide of Gen. Alexander Hayes at the battle of Gettysburg, in which Gen. Hayes was killed.

The surviving Civil War veterans are pitifully few this year. A specially impressive tribute of respect should be paid them on Memorial Day.

Next year they will be still fewer, and a year will come when none will remain to answer the roll on Memorial Day.

Committee Contests

The Results of the Contests for Control of the Local Republican Party Are Worth Noticing.

As the Returning Board reports the results of the contests for city-county committeemen and women and for places on the ward executive committees of the Republican party, they are being published in the Sun-Telegraph.

These results are worth noticing. Find out who has been elected to these important committee posts in your ward, your borough or your township and keep an eye on their official activities.

The committees control the affairs of the local branches of the Republican party and exercise considerable influence for good or evil.

Ordinarily only the professional politicians, their henchmen and jobholders in the city and county administration show much interest in the election of committeemen and women. We would have better governmnt if all Republican citizens would show equal interest.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 5.—New Yorkers a wayfarer sees after 3 a. m. suggest the inhabitants of another world. They seep into the cheap restaurants along Broadway and the Bowery, bucking themselves up with steaming black coffee and smoking cigarets chain fashion.

They travel alone and conversation is in scanty jerks. Silence is the defense mechanism for cloaking an unhappy past. Amid the suspicionings of the submerged they are perpetual John Does, clinging to the shadows and asking nothing but to be left alone.

Now and then there is a woman, hollow-eyed and frowzy wrecks twitching from booze or drugs. In the manner of scavenging night birds of the jungle, they drift out after the metropolis is in its first dead sleep. Compared to the noisy pageantry of daylight, they seem so many wraiths.

Every phase of failure is represented—the drunkard, hophead, panhandler and bum. They turn night into day to hide from a society that has passed them by. How they live, no one knows. Yet some have carried on for years, dead to all ambition and hope, completely burnt out.

Among a few there is a pretense of seeking a job. After gulping their coffee until sunup, they shiver before the want ad. bulletin boards. But they merely stare and mosey off. They are the misfits that coil into the city's great economic question mark.

In the uglier alcoves of the Bowery, are those awaiting in fuzzy-eyed despair the eruption of night sleepers in upstairs lodging houses and cellar flops. Here they toss and often moan in the minor of an African chant until night comes and the business of living becomes starkly real again.

Another pleasant change in a cockeyed cosmos is a sudden relief from the go-getter, who was in fashion during the boom. I refer to the breathless boys who telephoned from investment houses. There was a vein of innocent candor about their fixation to let me in on good things. I was often swept off my feet by their concentration to a noble impulse to make me rich. It was disillusioning to poke my head out of the sea floor wreckage and realize I was just another sucker running away with hook, line and sinker.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Mighty hard times, these. And you're doing everything you can for the other fellow, aren't you? Giving him clothes and money and food, to the limit of your heart and purse. That's fine. But remember this—

THE FINEST THING YOU CAN DO FOR ANY MAN IS TO BELIEVE IN HIM.

Believe in him as you'd want him to believe in you. (For you know how it would be with yourself, if you were down and out. They might give you everything your body needed, but if they despised you while they did it, what would the gift be worth?)

Believe in him, in spite of what he seems. Believe that he's better than he seems . . . more honest than his record, kinder, cleaner—

For he is! We all are!

How'd you like to be judged on YOUR record, with never an allowance for your secret hopes and dreams?

Believe that he wants to make good as much as you want to make good. Believe that he has pride and ambition and dreams—even if his eyes are those of a dead fish.

Believe in him, no matter what he says or does—

FOR NO MATTER WHAT HE SAYS OR DOES, HE IS WORTHY OF YOUR BELIEF.

Yes, I know he may be a weakling, a loafer, even a crook. He may have broken faith and thrown away chances. (Who hasn't!) He may be lazy and shiftless and ignorant. But—HE'S A MAN. And because he's a man, he's the greatest thing on earth. In him there is something more than feeble brain and sodden flesh. There is—Majesty and Mystery. There is—Life, the miraculous.

And that poor creature standing before you, accepting your charity, knows that. No matter how stupid he is, he knows his own wonder and importance. You may think he is only livestock, but he will never think he is only livestock. He will always know that there is something in him which is infinitely precious and powerful. He will always respect that Something and expect you to respect it.

Give him that respect which he expects. Give it to him, not as a noble gesture, but because it is his RIGHT . . . his BIRTHRIGHT AS A MAN.

If you cannot salute the man, salute the Mystery in the man.

He needs that salute. He needs it more than he needs food and clothes and bed. These things will keep his body alive. But only your respect will keep his soul alive. AND UNLESS YOU KEEP HIS SOUL ALIVE IT IS MUCH BETTER TO LET HIS BODY DIE.

Believe in him. Believe in him because it's his right and his need. Believe in him—and there's nothing he can't or won't accomplish with such help. For faith is not merely an attitude nor a gift. It is a mysterious tide. It comes from the secret places of life. Men are reborn in that tide. Believe in men . . . and give them life again.

Issues; and The Bottom Man

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

With the conventions not far off, and with the Republican press reflecting Republican strategy, elaborating on the theme that there are no distinct issues thus far developed between the two parties on purely political or economic issues, the Democrats ought to take notice.

The only possible hope for the re-election of Mr. Hoover lies in the ability of his supporters to convince the public that his policies will be continued in the event of a Democratic victory.

If nothing is to be gained, if nothing is to be changed, the only thing involved in the election would be the change in the personnel of government. And just now, with human misery unprecedented in the nation, not many people outside political circles are interested in that alone.

The condition to which the country has been brought is the result of the political and economic policies pursued during the last 12 years. In the long view it is not difficult to see that we are now reaping the harvest from the seed sown governmentally during the last 60 years. The present depression is not "just another panic." Our industrial, financial, governmental systems are all shaken to their foundations; and there will be no real or lasting recovery without drastic reforms and a complete change in the attitude of government toward the masses of the people.

It would be a silly person who would say today what our governing forces have been saying for 60 years, that "if we take care of the man at the top he will look after the man at the bottom."

Cannot Co-Operate With Hoover Regime

In the nature of things, because of the appalling blackness of the situation, it is not to the discredit of the Democrats that they have put party matters aside to concentrate on the immediate necessities—such as the balancing of the budget. When a house is on fire, the important and immediate necessity is to quench the flames. It would be absurd to order electricians into the conflagrations to correct the defects in wiring that caused the fire. That comes after the fire has been quenched.

Instead of putting forth a party program at this juncture, the Democrats have co-operated in trying to save our very system from collapse. They were invited to this co-operation with the assurance that no political advantage would be sought by the administration. But in the propaganda articles of the administration press, we read, on Sunday, that everything that has worked out, and been favorably received was the work of the administration. Not a word about the co-operation of the Democrats. But the same articles, referring to such unpopular measures as the moratorium, make the point that the Democrats co-operated. Even the Glass-Steagall is put down as the "Administration bill."

In time, perhaps — after the election at any rate—the Democrats will learn that they cannot co-operate with Mr. Hoover. We suggested it in the beginning; every one knows it now.

Democrats Oppose Hoover Tariff Aims

There has been one measure put through by the Democrats, which Mr. Hoover will veto, that marks a distinct cleavage between the parties. That is the tariff act. It puts the Democrats on record in favor of entering into negotiations through the channels of diplomacy and in an international conference to end the tariff war among the nations which we precipitated.

The Democrats are against the tariff law; they were against it when it was proposed and urged by Mr. Hoover; they were against it when it passed; and they are against it now. Mr. Hoover is for it now—just as he was when he exerted the full pressure of his power as President to force it through the Senate by a margin of two votes.

But even here, because a few Democrats voted for the bill, the administration organs are insisting—of all things!—that the Grundy act was really a bipartisan measure.

When the Underwood tariff act was passed it had the support of the late Senator La Follette; but it never occurred to the Democrats to say that the bill was anything other than a party measure.

Platform Must Explain Differences

The Democrats cannot afford to imitate the Republicans in their platform; cannot afford to create the impression by its planks that there is no fundamental difference between the two parties, and that means that the platform must set forth concisely, distinctly, emphatically, the elemental differences in the two schools of political thought—with applications to the present problems.

But, while present conditions, vindicating the Democrats' contentions for many years, offer a golden opportunity to set forth sharply the elemental differences which date back to the days of Jefferson and Hamilton, it is probably true politicians feel that a mere battle between the "ins" and the "outs" would result in a Democratic triumph.

For there are millions of Americans, victims of the 12-year regime of "the best minds," who have just one thought—to throw those in power from office. That sort of campaign would probably win, but unless the Democrats can agree now on the policies they will put in operation, their victory may be the last they will win for a long while.

There is no room in America for two reactionary parties; there is a demand for a party interested in the common man, and that party exists if it is true to Jefferson and Jackson.

Start at Bottom To Aid the Idle

It now is evident that Congress will have to act on a plan to put millions of men to work by starting at the bottom and working up. We have tried the administration plan of beginning at the top, and while much has been done for the man at the top, which has saved the man at the bottom from utter ruin, the number of the unemployed is actually on the increase. The most desperate problem before us now is still untouched. Millions of breadwinners have been out of work for two and three years, and their number is growing. This is ruining the merchant, ruining the manufacturer, and creating a spirit of bitter unrest that is easily understood.

Again we submit the prosperity loan.

La Follette has a bill to float such a loan; Wagner has another; they differ in amount. They have not been taken seriously until recently. But now, with the federal government doing nothing to prevent starvation, and with cities, counties, private charities doing less than before, because they have exhausted their resources, it has become imperative that the federal government appropriate money to feed the starving or give the starving work.

We hope it is true that men high in the financial world have been in secret conferences in Washington with the view to a prosperity loan. They were against it at first; and we are afraid their opposition was enough. But there is not an intelligent man in the financial world now who is not greatly worried. Money always is a slow thinker; and its vision is limited But it would have to be a moron and stone blind not to see now that something must be done.

This is not a party question; and there is no reason why it should be a party issue. If merchants are not to be driven to the wall, and more factories chill their furnace fires, purchasing power at the bottom must be restored—and there is just one way. That is through a prosperity loan that will put a vast army to work at wages.
